Pacific Ocean Non-Aggression Pact Urged at London Parley

Seen as Move for Co-operation Between U. S., Britain
BID TO 5 POWERS
Post-Coronation Celebrations Continue in London

London—(AP)—A plea for a Pacific ocean non-aggression pact, voiced before the British Imperial conference, was interpreted today in some political quarters as a move toward broad cooperation between Great Britain and the United States to preserve the peace of the world.

The pact, as proposed yesterday by Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons of Australia before statesmen-delegates from the ends of the British empire, would include Japan, Australia, Great Britain and the United States.

The empire talks were transferred today from the solemn grandeur of St. James' palace to the rustic peace of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's country home, Chiddingfold, where Lyons and Prime Minister J. B. Hertzog of the Union of South Africa were week-end guests.

In London where the gaiety of the coronation season still resounded, 150 advisers and secretaries of the conference delegates prepared documents to be submitted when the imperial conference is resumed next Wednesday in secret session.

Carnival Spirit Rules
London remained much the carnival city it was Wednesday when King George and Queen Elizabeth were crowned in Westminster abbey. Fresh crowds were attracted from the provinces to the still bedecked city by the Whitsuntide holidays.

The first state ball last night of the royal couple's reign brought 2,000 royal, titled, and distinguished guests to Buckingham palace last night, and a cheering throng estimated at 100,000 to the gates outside.

The king was in the blue and gold uniform of an admiral and the queen in a gown of ivory lace. The guests included 18 Americans, led by Ambassador Robert W. Bingham and their daughter, Henrietta.

The affair disclosed the fox trot as George's favorite dance. He danced five times—all fox trots. He opened the program by leading Crown Princess Martha of Norway onto the floor while the queen danced with Crown Prince Olaf of Norway.

Queen Mother Mary and Queen Maud of Norway sat in gold chairs on a dais, watching the dancers.

Italy Won't Abandon Self-Sufficiency Aim
Rome—(AP)—Premier Mussolini declared today Italy's self-sufficiency program was a guarantee of peace and could not be abandoned as he said, "the democracies" would like.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the corporative guild, he drew an extensive picture of Italy's economic development in the last year and said:

"Economic autarchy is a guarantee of peace which we firmly desire. It is an impediment to war and on this point there is no hesitation in assuring the life and power of a great people like the Italian nation. The democracies would like to have the so-called authoritarian states renounce their autarchies in exchange for we do not know what counterpart."

"For us it is impossible in a world armed to the teeth to abandon such a policy. It would mean putting ourselves tomorrow, in case of war, at the mercy of those who have all and who can make war without limitation of time or consumption."

Brothers are Accused Of Robbing Aged Man
Maunton—(AP)—Henry and Philip Davis, brothers living on a farm near Tomah, were charged today with the robbery of J. C. Peterson, 91-year-old farmer in the Camp Douglas neighborhood. Peterson told the police two men robbed his home Tuesday night. One, he said, held him in bed while the other broke open a small safe and took $700 in cash and between $400 and $500 in negotiable papers.

A Mixed Blessing?
Steel and labor get together. Some view it as an important step toward prosperity, while others say "the public will pay, after all, because the price of steel mounted. Another mixed blessing, eh? There was no doubt, however, about the benefits resulting from The Post-Crescent Went Ad Below, which enabled a seller and a buyer to get together."

DINING SUITE—Wahnet, Queen Anne, 8 pieces. 624 West Spring St. Tel. 4397.

Had between 15 and 18 calls and sold after first run of ad in the Post-Crescent.

King Christian of Denmark Observes 25th Anniversary Of His Accession to Throne

KING FOR 25 YEARS

King Christian X of Denmark and Iceland today was celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the throne. Observances throughout Denmark will continue through Sunday.

Copenhagen, Denmark—(AP)—Tall King Christian X of Denmark and Iceland, fifth longest reigning sovereign of Europe, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the Danish throne today as thousands massed in Copenhagen's flag-decked streets to cheer the popular monarch.

The king, resplendent in the scarlet uniform of the royal life guards, rode with Queen Alexandra in an open state carriage drawn by four black horses to the Cathedral of Our Lady for commemorative services.

Two other kings, Christian's brother, King Haakon of Norway, and King Gustav of Sweden, with diplomats and civil authorities went to the cathedral for the occasion.

Christian ascended his throne May 14, 1912, but the celebration was held today, since the date fell on the anniversary of the death of his father, Frederick VIII.

The day opened with hymns beneath the king's balcony. There a chorus of 600 men massed in the courtyard of Amaliegade palace to sing an early morning tribute to his majesty.

Joins in Anthem
King Christian appeared on the balcony and joined in singing the Danish national anthem, "King Christian Stood by the Lofly Mast."

After church services, the royal family held a private luncheon at the palace for visiting the royalty, which included Prince George of Greece and the grand duke of Mecklenburg, brother of Queen Alexandra.

Socialist and left wing groups demonstrated the monarch's unquestioned popularity by joining in a joint session of both chambers of parliament to honor the king and thank him for his services to the nation.

Every village and hamlet of tiny Denmark held some kind of celebration, and observances were planned to continue through Sunday.

Organizing Leaders Meet in Closed Session in Pittsburgh
Pittsburgh—(AP)—One hundred leaders of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee met in closed executive session today to mobilize a militant drive for exclusive collective bargaining recognition from three of the nation's largest independent steel producers.

Chairman Philip Murray, jubilant over what he called a "complete victory" ending the 36-hour strike at Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation mills yesterday, declined to discuss what measures would be decided upon at today's meeting.

Previously he had disclosed it would map strategy to be used against the Republic Steel corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and the Crucible Steel Company of America.

Those concerns, employing approximately 97,000 men, were named as immediate objectives in the union's new policy of demanding sole collective bargaining rights to represent their employees.

Plan Election
Settlement of the Jones and Laughlin strike led to announcement of the new policy by providing for a government supervised election May 20, to determine if the union has a majority of the workers.

The company agreed to deal with the union as representing all of its workers if it wins a majority vote—the first open offer of its kind made by a major steel company. Jones and Laughlin employs 27,000 men in its plants at Pittsburgh and Alliquippa, Pa.

Previous union contracts—made with units of the United States Steel corporation and more than 100 smaller producers independent of "big steel"—have recognized the union only as representing its members in their employment.

Republic and Youngstown Sheet and Tube have refused to sign such an agreement. Murray said this week that strikes were "inevitable" at these companies and other independents unless they signed contracts with his organization.

Merrill Will Enter Aerial Race to Paris

Flier Only Man to Cross Atlantic Four Times In Airplane

NEW RECORDS SET
Complete Round Trip to England Exactly 5 Days After Start

Washington—(AP)—Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie told President Roosevelt today of their experiences on their round trip flight across the north Atlantic.

The aviators, first to accomplish such a feat without mishap, were accompanied to the White House by Ben Smith, their New York backer.

They said the president asked them about weather conditions, the altitudes they flew, and how the instruments and motors functioned.

New York—(AP)—Henry T. "Dick" Merrill, the only man who has flown the Atlantic four times in an airplane, talked today of his next flight—the air race to Paris—and decided his experience "gives me a pretty good chance at that prize."

The race in August will commemorate Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's epochal flight to Paris, accomplished just 10 years ago next week.

Merrill's second round trip across the ocean was completed at 3:35 p. m., eastern standard time yesterday when he and his co-pilot, John S. "Jack" Lambie, Jr., landed at Floyd Bennett field, 24 hours, 22 minutes after leaving Southampton, England, and exactly five days to the minute from the time they took off last Sunday for London to bring back pictures of the coronation.

Merrill made his first round trip last September with Harry Richmond, the night club singer.

Return to Jobs
Both fliers will return next week to their workaday jobs of flying a transport plane on the New York-to-Miami run. Lambie has been Merrill's co-pilot on the run for the last four months.

The two pilots credited the other with the success of the record-breaking trip.

Said Lambie: "Dick did all the work." But Merrill disclosed that Lambie did the navigation as well as relieving him at the wheel. A modified great circle course was followed both directions. At each end of the trip, radio navigation was used to direct the ship to its destination. But for something over 2,500 miles in each direction, Lambie used celestial navigation and dead reckoning.

In addition to a radio compass, the fliers used a Sperry gyro pilot, a two-way radio telephone, and key wireless. "It was awful rough weather," said Merrill. "I don't know what we'd have done without the automatic pilot."

'Borrowed' Magazine
Still to be Returned
Elroy, Wis.—(AP)—A stranger questioned citizens about subscribers to a pictorial magazine which recently became public property. He was referred to an employee at the bank.

He went to the bank employee's home, where he informed the lady of the house he was seeking a back number of the magazine to rephotograph a picture in it. He asked to borrow her copy for a few days. The obliging banker's wife, who was holding a stack of old magazines and found the issue desired. It was Vol. 1, No. 1—the first issue.

The stranger has not returned the magazine. He is not expected to do so. There were only 300,000 copies of the issue printed, and each is said to be worth many times the sale price.

Shoots at Sparrow and Wounds His Employer
Monroe, Wis.—(AP)—When Walter Nafziger, 20, helper at the Gerber Cheese factory, shot from the factory doorway yesterday at a sparrow he missed the sparrow and wounded his employer, Fred Gerber, who had walked into the line of fire. Gerber went to the hospital for treatment of superficial wounds to the chest and left arm.

CHILD FATALITY BURNED
Monroe, Wis.—(AP)—Jean, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ecker, town of Decatur, was burned fatally yesterday when matches ignited her clothing.

Wallis Won't be 'Her Royal Highness' After Marriage to Former King Edward
London—(AP)—A titled friend of the duke of Windsor asserted today "it is definitely fixed" that the duke's bride-to-be will not become "her royal highness"—at least not immediately.

This intimate admitted that the former British monarch was most anxious to obtain for his bride his own royal style when they marry.

"That is quite natural," said the friend, "for he wanted to make her queen."

The duke's younger brother, King George VI, and the government hold all the trumpets in the game, he added, but it was not ruled out that the king might raise the duchess to the rank of "H.R.H." after a lapse of time had dimmed the bitter feeling engendered by the abdication.

Jumping Jubilee Trials Today; 500 Frogs are Entered

Angels Camp, Calif.—(AP)—The mother lode country was all hopped up today over 500 frogs here to commemorate Mark Twain's tale of the "Jumping Frog of Calaveras." It is the ninth jumping jubilee.

Individual rivalry among the "athletes" spotlighted "Mountain Music," an Arkansas croaker entered by Bob Burns, comedian, and "Double or Nothing," California swampland crooner, entered by Bing Crosby, film singer.

The jumping program opened with preliminary trials today and championship hops tomorrow.

Hoan, Thompson In Verbal Clash Over Waterway

Appear at Illinois Hearing On Resolution Protesting Treaty

Chicago—(AP)—Impartial observers figured today the honors were about even in the rough and tumble oratorical bout William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson waged with Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee over the proposed St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

It was a four-hour give and take battle in the city hall council chambers yesterday before an Illinois legislative committee which was considering a resolution protesting the treaty.

The committee will resume the hearing May 28. Chairman Charles H. Weber said United States Senators Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin and Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan would be among representatives of those states who will be heard at that time.

With characteristic booming voice, Thompson, three times mayor of Chicago, attacked the proposed pact on grounds it would menace the city's health and ruin the Illinois-Mississippi river waterway by further restricting diversion of Lake Michigan waters.

Prior to the hearing Thompson said he had been "waiting 15 years for this chance to meet that guy" (Hoan). The Milwaukee Socialist mayor opened his arguments with

Smoking Scored At Church Meet

Young Minister in Attack On 'Share-Cropping' And 'Sweet Shop'

New Orleans—(AP)—Smoking was branded unchristian and unhealthy by the Southern Baptist convention after its 4,000 messengers heard an appeal from a young minister to switch attention from such "trivial evils" to larger social problems involving the "iniquitous share-cropping system" and "sweet shop."

"This is my first public appearance and I realize I am treading on dangerous ground," said the 29-year-old minister, the Rev. Charles R. Bell, Jr., of Anniston, Ala., in his first convention speech before veteran Baptist ministers and laymen.

"But," he said, "I cannot adopt such weak and indefinite resolutions in a day when we are faced with hunger throughout the land."

The convention, representing some 4,000,000 Baptists, had adopted resolutions condemning the liquor evil, child marriages, large armament programs and pleading for world peace.

Told by resolution of the Rev. R. C. Howard, Oklahoma City, condemning the use of tobacco, that four babies had died in a hospital in Oklahoma because their mothers used tobacco, the young minister challenged whether these mothers "could afford orange juice, fresh vegetables and proper food."

"Is it Christ-like," Mr. Bell asked, "when our colored brethren must come into the auditorium through a separate entrance?"

KILLED BY TREE
Ashland, Wis.—(AP)—John Kovach, 20, of Glidden, was killed yesterday when pinned beneath a falling tree. He was a member of a logging crew working 15 miles from Glidden.

After dropping yesterday, the rivers started climbing again last night. The flood first swept into town Thursday night and reached a record height of 13 feet, 2 inches above normal.

Refugees found shelter in private homes on dry ground and in public buildings and hotels there was little excitement.

Mayor E. B. Collins said outside aid was not needed now.

Prof. Charles Haskins Succumbs in Cambridge
Cambridge, Mass.—(AP)—Charles Homer Haskins, professor emeritus of history at Harvard university, and an internationally known scholar, died here yesterday. He was 67.

Cabinet Quits But Premier Is Asked to Stay

Largo Caballero Is Expected to Organize New Government

REASON NOT GIVEN
Cruiser Helps Insurgent Land Forces in Bilbao District

Valencia—(AP)—The wartime government of Premier Francisco Largo Caballero resigned today, and Spain's republic began at once to seek a new cabinet.

Largo Caballero, the extreme socialist who had guided the destinies of the regime through eight months of continuous assault by fascist insurgents, handed in the resignation of his left coalition cabinet at 10 a. m. (This news was delayed 5 hours by the Valencia censor).

But it appeared Largo Caballero might also form the new government. Leaders of the "U.G.T." socialist-communist labor union, were insistent that he continue in power. They said his forceful personality was "indispensable."

An official announcement said all elements represented in the old cabinet (socialists, communists, anarchists, syndicalists, and left republicans) would be consulted before the new government was decided upon.

Cause Not Revealed
(This heavily censored dispatch did not give the reason for the resignation, but outsiders regarded it as possible the recent anarchist revolt in autonomous Barcelona might have had a bearing, since there are powerful anarcho-syndicalist elements in the main Spanish government of Valencia.)

(The government's main internal political trouble during the civil war has been to try to reconcile anarchists and syndicalists with socialists, communists and left republicans all supporting the regime against Francisco Franco's military insurgents.)

Valencia itself was calm. Reports of a coming cabinet reshuffle had been circulated for some time, and caused no surprise.

CRUISER HELPS REBELS
Bayonne, France—Spanish Frontiers—The insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera, bearing the land forces of General Emilio Mola, shell-battered scarred slopes of Mount Solbue today as Basque defense troops desperately attempted to block the way to Mungia, seven miles northeast of Bilbao.

A fierce battle raged below the mountain peak. The insurgents charged the government lines with fixed bayonets but apparently were unable to dislodge the Basque militiamen.

Reports indicated the insurgents had been forced to withdraw with considerable losses.

Mola's legions, however, captured another strategic height, Mount Tolul, two and a half miles north of Mungia, and began encircling Mount Jata.

Possession of the latter would give the insurgents an opportunity to dominate the small towns along the Nervion river estuary, Bilbao's outlet to the sea.

Fairbanks Hit By Rising Water
Half of Alaskan City's Inhabitants Forced to Quit Homes

Fairbanks, Alaska—(AP)—Rising river waters flooded three fourths of Fairbanks today, causing half of the 2,100 inhabitants to flee their homes and cut off all communication except by airplane.

Water from a few inches to about three feet deep flooded buildings. Special policemen in rubber boots or boats kept guard. Persons saving their most valued possessions used rowboats and canoes to reach their homes.

Private construction firms estimated damage at between $200,000 and $400,000.

The Alaska railroad and highways were blocked. Airplane pilots equipped their ships with skis and slipped off the airfield where areas of muddy ground showed.

Although cool temperatures brought hope, apprehension was expressed lest a sudden rise in temperature would melt snow on the hills of the upper Tanana valley and increase the flood.

After dropping yesterday, the rivers started climbing again last night. The flood first swept into town Thursday night and reached a record height of 13 feet, 2 inches above normal.

Refugees found shelter in private homes on dry ground and in public buildings and hotels there was little excitement.

3 Supreme Court Justices Ready To Leave Bench

LABOR LEADER DIES

Philip Snowden, former chancellor of the exchequer and long a leader of the British labor movement, died today of heart disease at his country home in England.

High opposition senators, who did not wish to be quoted by name, said the justices ready to retire were Brandeis, Van Devanter and Sutherland.

From other persons came a hint that at least one of the trio—Justice Van Devanter—would quit soon, regardless of continuance of the court dispute.

Justice Van Devanter at 78 is the oldest member of the court except 80-year-old Justice Brandeis and is the senior member in point of service. Friends long have said he was tired of serving and wanted to retire, but was reluctant to step down while the court bill was pending.

There were suggestions today, however, that he had made up his mind to quit and might announce his decision either just before or just after the senate judiciary committee votes next Tuesday on the court bill.

Brandeis has voted for most of the Roosevelt legislation except NRA, but Van Devanter and Sutherland belong to the group of justices that has been the center of criticism by supporters of the court bill.

Attend Conference
The retirement reports excited both sides in the judiciary controversy, coming immediately after President Roosevelt conferred with Vice President Garner, Senator Robinson (D-Ark.), Speaker Bankhead and Representative Rayburn (D-Texas) on this and other legislative problems.

"I see no prospect now of an adjustment on the court bill and I expect that the battle will go on," said Robinson as he left the White House late yesterday.

"The vote in the senate will be close, with a fair prospect of passage of the bill."

The senate judiciary committee is divided at present 10 to 9 against the measure. Both sides claim a majority in the senate itself, and are preparing for long and heated debate.

The president and his lieutenants also discussed relief needs and reduction of government expenditures. Mr. Roosevelt renewed his appeal for a $1,500,000,000 relief fund for next year.

Disagree On Amount
Some members of house and senate are trying to cut that amount by one-third, while another group is attempting to increase it.

The house appropriations committee has voted for the sum requested by the president, and leaders expressed confidence it would be approved by congress.

The White House conferees disclosed that the president's message recommending establishment of additional regional power authorities—similar to the Tennessee Valley Authority—probably will go to congress next week.

He may recommend minimum standards of wages and hours later in the session, they said.

Despite the topsy-turvy atmosphere on Capitol Hill this week, both Senator Robinson and Representative Rayburn, the Democratic floor leaders, spoke proudly of accomplishments of the session to date. They pointed out that the legislative calendars were nearly clear and said congress had kept "well up with its work."

Action May Hinge on Roosevelt Reorganization Stand

DOUBT COMPROMISE
Brandeis, Van Devanter And Sutherland May Resign

Washington—(AP)—Opponents of the Roosevelt court bill said today three early retirements from the supreme court were assured if the president would drop his judicial reorganization program.

Administration leaders who conferred with Mr. Roosevelt last night reported the battle for the bill would "go on." In stating there would be no compromise, these officials did not indicate whether the reported readiness of three justices to retire had been communicated to the chief opposition program.

High opposition senators, who did not wish to be quoted by name, said the justices ready to retire were Brandeis, Van Devanter and Sutherland.

5-Year-Old Son of Deaf Mute Couple Learning to Talk
Knoxville, Tenn.—(AP)—A new world unfolded today for chubby, blue-eyed Billy Payne whose first five years have been spent in silence. Billy, bright-faced and energetic, lived in the mountains near Knoxville where he never heard a human voice. A month ago he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Payne, came to the Volunteers of America home here. Captain W. W. Thom thought, Billy, like his father and mother, was deaf and mute.

"It was by accident I learned he could hear," Thom said. "I blew my automobile horn and saw him jump."

Call Meeting to Get Opinions on Fish, Game Laws

Outagamie County Session To Be Held at Courthouse May 25

Every Wisconsin citizen will have an opportunity to help shape the state's fish and game regulations at meetings to be held in each of the 71 counties this month.

The Outagamie county session will be held at the courthouse at 8 o'clock in the evening of May 25. Conservation Warden George Whalen, Appleton, has announced.

The purpose of the county meeting is to get the sentiment of the locality as to fish and game regulations. Any qualified voter is entitled to attend the meeting, voice his or her opinions and aid in the election of a committee consisting of a chairman, two members and two alternates.

Each county committee will be recognized as representing the views of the locality that elected it. A state-wide meeting of the county representatives will be held later for the purpose of shaping fish and game regulations to apply next season.

Decide on Limits

Decisions as to bag limits, fish size limits and other regulations will be in the making at the county meetings and the conservation department is anxious to have a good representation of county conservationists at each meeting.

The meetings are asked to elect men the sportsmen and the public of the county trust to represent their best conservation interests. They are unprejudiced and able to view all conservation questions with an open mind and who know the local fish and game problems. Anyone convicted of a violation of the fish or game laws during the past five years is barred from serving on a county committee.

There are many controversial questions of game and fish regulation to come before the public this year. Ernest Swift, deputy conservation director, declared in announcing the county meetings, "The interested public, conservationists and sportsmen, in order to have a full voice in these regulations, should elect their committee members with great care."

Lions Will Hear Of State Program

Tourist and Recreation Plans to Be Outlined At Meeting Monday

The Wisconsin tourist and recreation program will be outlined by J. H. Alexander, Madison at the Lions club luncheon meeting Monday at the Conway hotel. Mr. Alexander is superintendent of the recreational publicity division of the conservation commission.

Mr. Alexander is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and North Dakota State college departments of agriculture and is an editor and writer on agriculture, conservation, industrial history, agricultural subjects and fact-finding stories for children.

For more than nine years he was the director of educational publicity for the Wisconsin Manufacturer's association. More recently, and just before he assumed his present position, he was director of the division of projects and planning of WPA, on leave of absence from the state planning board.

Now, Mr. Alexander is in charge of the state campaign of publicity and advertising to publicize the vast recreational assets of Wisconsin and to invite visitors to "Relax in Wisconsin. Where Friends and Nature Meet."

McKinley Scout Troop To Camp at Gardner Dam

Several Boy Scouts of McKinley school troop 11 left Friday afternoon for Gardner dam where the troop will hold a 2-day camp this weekend. About 20 other scouts are expected to leave for camp today. Merick Nelson, scoutmaster, Jake Pawler, Claude Snow and Arthur Malchow, troop committee members, are in charge of the camp.

Past Commander Will Address Legion Group

Watertown, Wis.—P—D. J. Kenney, West Bend, past department commander of the American Legion, will be the principal speaker here tomorrow night at a banquet closing the annual spring conference of the Second district of the legion. Mayor R. W. Luck and Dr. N. T. Sunday, legion commander, are among the speakers. Visiting bands and drum corps will parade.

The statement he had been trying for 15 years "to get into Chicago with my story."

Hits Chicago Stand

Mayor Hoan deplored Chicago's "lack of interest in an ocean waterway" and urged the city and Illinois to join the lakes states in support of the treaty for their common good. Hoan, who is president of the Great Lakes Harbors association, charged the opposition to the treaty was fostered by "railroad dominated officials."

Thompson ridiculed contentions that the city's current rate of water diversion—5,000 cubic feet per second—endangered the success of the waterway project. Reduction of the flow to 1,500 cubic feet per second—endangered the success of the waterway project.

STEEL PICKETS HALT MAIL TRUCK

Before a temporary agreement had been reached at one of strike-hit independent steel company mills, this was the scene at Alliquippa, Pa., when strikers stormed a United States mail truck, detaining it for more than a half hour before permitting it to pass picket lines. The strikers thought the vehicle carried food for office workers inside the mills.

Park Avenue No Place for Pub-Crawler, Pegler Says

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Well, that settles that. Hereafter, your correspondent is going to do his pub-crawling down on the Bowery and in Chinatown, and keep away from Park Ave., and the swank bistros, as Mr. O. O. McIntyre calls them. For Major Will Corum, the sport columnist for the Hearst papers, lies thrashing on a bed of pain in St. Luke's hospital, shot in the act of seeing a lady home from the club.

And was Will shelved in some steamy stew, where the human floss and jelsam of life's backwash fester in a foetid blabber, as Mr. McIntyre would say? He was not. Our Will was shot in a soigne pie a terre, if one may borrow a bon mot from Mr. McIntyre, at the corner of Park Ave. and 63rd St., hard by some of the swankiest bistros in town.

Your correspondent speaks of Mr. Corum as our Will even though he does work for Mr. Hearst, because he is practically everybody's Will Corum. Your correspondent has seen him sling his typewriter off a train at midnight, even in Baltimore, where the night comes down solid as rock at 7:30 in the evening, and light up the whole town with his presence, causing the roosters to crow and the milkmen to start out two hours earlier.

There is never any night where Our Will is, and your correspondent often has thought that some of those mobs and murder crowds which Mr. McIntyre is always seeing in New York were just our Will surrounded by a few friends going somewhere to listen to the music.

Pentecost Will Be Observed by Churches Here

Confirmation Services are Planned by Two Congregations

Whitsunday or Pentecost, the seventh Sunday after Easter, will be observed by Christian churches everywhere tomorrow. On this day the churches celebrated the descent of the Holy Ghost upon the apostles. Confirmation is being held in two churches Sunday, at Trinity English Lutheran and St. John Evangelical and Reformed churches, and there will be a sacred concert at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at St. Matthew Lutheran church given by Concordia college male chorus of Milwaukee.

Confirmation will be held in connection with the morning service at 10:30 Sunday morning at Trinity English Lutheran church. The sermon by the Rev. D. E. Bosserman pastor, will be entitled "Rewards of Loving and Obeying the Lord Jesus Christ." At St. John church the children will be confirmed at 10:15, an English service. After confirmation the children will receive holy communion for the first time. The Rev. A. Guenther, pastor, will speak briefly to the parents after which he will speak to the children on the theme, "When He Came to Himself."

Morning Service

Baptist Young People's Union will have charge of the morning service Sunday at First Baptist church. The general theme will be "Youth Building a New World," and three talks will be given as follows: "Building a Personal Christian Philosophy," by Melvin Trent; "Stress to Creative Living," by Mary Delrow; and "The Use of Prayer," by Doris Ryan. An afternoon program will begin at 2:30 to which neighboring young people's groups have been invited. The Rev. H. E. Mansfield of Allenville will be guest speaker, and there will be readings, music, and games. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock and a devotional service with installation of officers will follow.

"The Meaning of Pentecost" will be the subject of a sermon by the Rev. F. C. Reuter Sunday morning at First English Lutheran church. At Mt. Olive Lutheran church the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer will preach on "The Church of Jesus Christ," and at Zion Lutheran church the Rev. Theodore Marth will speak on "The Day of Pentecost." There will be confessional and holy communion services for the confirmation class of 1937 and other members of Zion at 8 o'clock Sunday morning.

Two Sermons

Both the Rev. F. M. Brandt and the Rev. T. J. Sauer will preach at St. Paul Lutheran church Sunday morning. The English sermon by Pastor Brandt will be given at 9 o'clock and will be entitled "The Precious Gift of God's Spirit," and Pastor Sauer will preach on "Die Herrlichen Segnungen des Pfingstfestes" at 10:15. The sermon by the Rev. Philip Froehle Sunday morning at St. Matthew Lutheran church will be on the theme "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you."

The Rev. John B. Hanna, pastor of First Congregational church, will preach a sermon Sunday on "Christianity and Communism," while at Memorial Presbyterian church the Rev. Robert K. Bell will speak on "Fools of God." "The Paradox of Christian Peace" is the title of the sermon to be given by Dr. Gilbert S. Cox at First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday.

Evangelist Hattie Hammond will preach the sermon Sunday at Gospel Temple. The Rev. G. H. Bauerlein will preach at New Appleton tabernacle, his afternoon subject to be "No Fire in the Fire-Box" and his evening sermon to be entitled "Wanted-A Baptism With Fire." "Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Begin Paving of New Route 41 This Month

Paving of 10,674 miles of Super-highway 41 in Outagamie county, from McCarty's crossing to the intersection with Highway 47 a mile north of Wisconsin avenue, will be started this month.

The Weymouth Construction company, Milwaukee, general contractors, will receive $304,389.69 for the job and will lay a 20-foot concrete slab on the 40-foot road bed. The slab will be placed off-center to permit addition of an additional 10 feet on one side when traffic warrants construction of a third lane.

Confers With County Red Cross Officials

E. A. Speers Red Cross field man for eastern Wisconsin, has been conferring with officials of the Outagamie county chapter of Red Cross for the last few days on committee and first aid work.

Several persons from Outagamie county are at the present time enrolled in a WPA first aid course sponsored by Red Cross and after completion of the course will organize classes in this county.

SLAYER AND SWEETHEART CAPTURED

To obtain custody of Lester Brockelhurst (right), 23, paroled convict on a murder charge was the aim of Illinois police who flew to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., after the accused slayer was arrested at Brewster, N. Y., with Bernice Felton, 18, of Rockford, Ill., his sweetheart. New York officers reported Brockelhurst admitted he killed men in robberies at Dallas, Tex., and Rockford, but said he didn't know wounds were fatal to another asserted victim in Little Rock, Ark. The couple is shown with Trooper Edward McManus.

Farmer Members of Both Houses Introduce Bills Effecting Agriculture

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—The many farmer members of both houses of the legislature have introduced a large number of bills affecting their industry, a glance through the bulletins of proceedings of each house reveals.

Of the dozens of bills offered during the last four months affecting agriculture, many are of direct concern to the northeastern Wisconsin dairy industry.

Among the most important of these agricultural proposals is the one which would assess each dairy farmer $1 and each dairy plant $10 to $500 for the support of a dairy inspection program. The bill proposes to establish a "quality milk standardization" program, and would create an organization of 80 inspectors to enforce minimum requirements on each dairy farm. The measure was bitterly opposed by farm spokesmen at a recent hearing.

Plan Cheese Grading

Another bill of great interest to the northeastern cheese producing counties is that introduced by the state department of agriculture and markets to establish a state cheese grading program, and which was likewise opposed by farmers, and still more insistently by cheese makers, who decried the cost to the farmer and the lack of a need for such a program. Petitions protesting the bill are being received daily, while the bill itself is awaiting action in the assembly.

Other bills recently introduced and scheduled soon for attention by the lawmakers would require for sign butter offered for sale in Wisconsin to be labeled, would define and prohibit imitation cheese and butter, would amend the statutes on cheese dealers' licenses, would increase the regulation of the sale of condensed or powdered skim milk and exempt trucks hauling fluid milk from the mileage tax.

Arouse Interest

Considerable interest has been aroused in another bill offered by the state department of agriculture which would create a state milk testing system. Nominally authored by Assemblyman Charles Laack of Plymouth, proponents argue that the state testing system would eliminate many of the unfair practices to which cheese factory proprietors now resort in testing their patrons' milk.

Senator Dempsey has introduced a bill which would allow the state

Twelve Youths in Final Matches of Marbles Tourney

Winners of First Two Places to Compete in WPA District Meet

Approximately 1,100 boys have taken part in the WPA marbles tournament in Outagamie county during the last week with the field cut down to 12 players for the finals being played today at the Little Chute ball park, according to Hubert J. Plette county WPA recreational supervisor.

Winners of first and second places today will journey to DePere on Saturday, May 22, to compete in the district finals. They will be accompanied by their own recreational leader and Plette. Other counties to be represented in the district meet are Marinette, Oconto, Door, Brown, Shawano, Calumet and Winnebago.

County winners will be presented with ribbons. District winners will receive medals and will have a chance to travel to Milwaukee to play in the state finals.

Plans are being considered for staging a WPA state tennis tournament and players who have never entered a tournament put on by the State or National Tennis association.

Door-co Cherry Trees To Bloom May 20 to 25

Cherry trees in Door county are expected to be in bloom between May 20 and 25, according to a bulletin received at the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, Sunday, May 22, has been designated as the probable time "Blossom Sunday." Information may be had from Karl S. Reynolds, executive vice president of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce, Milwaukee.

$395,000 in Life Insurance Paid Here During 1936

State Total Increases $1,600,000 or 3 Per Cent Over 1935

Appleton life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries were paid $395,000 in 1936, placing the city twelfth in the state for life insurance payments, a compilation by The National Underwriter, an insurance publication, shows.

The state total was $55,600,000 or $152,353 a day, an increase of $1,600,000 or 3 per cent over the 1935 total of $54,000,000.

Milwaukee led Wisconsin cities in life insurance payments in 1936 with $13,340,000, compared to $12,280,000 in 1935. Milwaukee ranked seventeenth among all the cities in the country. Madison was second in payments in Wisconsin with $14,148,000 in 1936 and $13,668,000 in 1935. Racine came third with $615,000, followed by Oshkosh with $605,000; Sheboygan, $527,000; Manitowish, $525,000; LaCrosse $485,000; Kenosha, $465,000; Wausau, $461,000; Superior, $445,000; Green Bay, $435,000; Appleton, $335,000; Wauwatosa, $395,000; Beloit, $238,000; Fond du Lac, $230,000; Marinette, $230,000; West Allis, $230,000; Janesville, $226,000.

Other Payments

Substantial life insurance payments were made in nearby states, Minnesota having $32,800,000 with Minneapolis as its leading city with $14,337,000. Iowa's life insurance payments totaled $35,800,000 led by Des Moines with $2,640,000 and Illinois received $27,500,000 led by Chicago with $10,413,000. Michigan had $23,300,000 led by Detroit with $2,878,000.

Amounts paid in communities in the Fox river valley area include Brillion $15,000, Chilton $35,000, Clintonville $48,000, Dale $5,000, De Pere $55,000, West De Pere $30,000, Hilbert $4,000, Kaukauna $185,000, Little Chute $26,000, Marion $5,000, Menasha $105,000, Neenah $180,000, New London $74,000, Shawano $64,000, Waupaca $65,000 and Weyauwega $15,000.

Honor Charles D. Thompson For 25 Years of Service as Vocational Board Secretary

A quarter century of vocational education in Appleton was reviewed Thursday noon when the board of vocational education honored its secretary, Charles D. Thompson, for 25 years of service on the board. He is the only present member who served on the original board appointed in 1912 and is the oldest vocational board member, in point of service, in Wisconsin.

William A. Fannon and Miss Carrie Morgan, members of the original board, Judson Rosebush, former member, and Miss Mabel Burke, first instructor in the school, also were in attendance.

During the 25 years of industrial and vocational education in Appleton, only 15 persons have served on the board and the school has had only three directors.

Legislation enabling Appleton to offer industrial education to out-of-school students was adopted in 1911 and the school board that same year, elected members to the first board of industrial education.

Name First Members
William A. Fannon, Charles D. Thompson, H. G. Freeman and Carl

Maeser were named to the board but when Mr. Freeman refused the office, George Thomas was elected. Miss Carrie Morgan, then superintendent of schools, was named as the fifth member and at the first meeting Mr. Thompson was elected secretary, and has held the position ever since.

The board began organization of a school in 1912 and the first classes were started Oct. 1, 1913, in quarters in the Post building on S. Appleton street.

The faculty was composed of William A. Faulkes, director, and Miss Mabel Burke, home economics and academic instructor, and two boys and one girl appeared for the first day's classes. A third teacher was hired that year as enrollment new.

Mr. Faulkes remained as director until 1918 when he was appointed chairman of the state board of vocational education's rehabilitation program at Madison, a position which he continues to hold. Miss Burke now is head of the vocational school home economics department.

Plan Night Classes
By November, 1913, about 86 students were enrolled and plans were started for night school classes. Rapid increase in enrollment was noted during the first three years and then the movement remained static until after the World war.

When Mr. Faulkes resigned in 1918, he was succeeded by Willard S. Ford, then superintendent of schools at New London. The next year the name "vocational school" was adopted and "industrial" was discarded.

In Mr. Faulkes' last year, preparations were made for constructing a new building, to be the first school exclusively for vocational education in the United States. The city voted $75,000 for site and building and the structure was ready for occupancy in the fall of 1919. A year ago last January the new shop addition was opened for classes.

Ford Resigns Post
Mr. Ford left the institution in the spring of 1924 to enter Columbia university in New York. After getting a Ph. D. degree he went to Los Angeles where he now is chief deputy superintendent of schools.

Herb Heilig, present director, came here to succeed Mr. Ford and it has been during the last 13 years that the greatest progress has been made. The school now has 14 full-time instructors and there are a number of part-time and itinerant teachers. In 8 months of this school year, 3,211 students have enrolled in day and night classes.

During the year of industrial and vocational education, changes in the board of directors only were necessary because members had died or moved from the city.

Other Board Members
Other board members besides those already mentioned include Fred Baumann, Herman G. Saacker, Judson G. Rosebush, William Druce and Adolph Guyer. The present board includes Carlton E. Saacker, Charles D. Thompson, Harvey Jahnke, John Watson and B. J. Rohan, superintendent of schools.

George P. Hambrecht, state director of vocational education, was a guest at the Thursday meeting and praised Appleton leaders who have fostered the vocational education program and helped to make the local school one of the best in the country.

T. E. Connell Observes His Eightieth Birthday

Chilton—T. E. Connell, former president of the State Banks of Chilton, Hilbert, Stockbridge and Greenleaf, celebrated his eightieth birthday at his home Thursday. He was born in South Germantown, Wisconsin county. He taught school for five years, later going into the lumber business in Hays, Wis., where he lived for many years. He moved to Chilton, where he incorporated the State Bank of Chilton with his father and his sister. He was president of the bank in 1935.

Mrs. George Winkler entertained her bridge club Tuesday evening. High scores were made by Mrs. Joseph McHugh and Mrs. A. J. Pfeiffer. This was the final meeting of the club for the season.

Mrs. John Rupp entertained the Queen of Hearts club Tuesday afternoon, high scores being made by Mrs. John Laughlin, Mrs. Lewis Rupp and Mrs. Joseph Schmidtkofer. The club will meet next with Mrs. Schmidtkofer.

Mrs. Charles Nast, who recently underwent a major operation at St. Agnes hospital in Fond du Lac, returned to her home this week. She is making a satisfactory convalescence.

Applications for marriage licenses were received from the following by County Clerk Roland Miller during the last week: Herbert Steiner, town of Brotherton, and Marian Morgan, town of New Holstein; Harold Schaff and Dorothy Higgins, both of Chilton; A. R. Kuecherer, Milwaukee; and Marie Rafter, Chilton; Emil J. Steiner, Chilton, town, and Theresa Thill, Stockbridge.

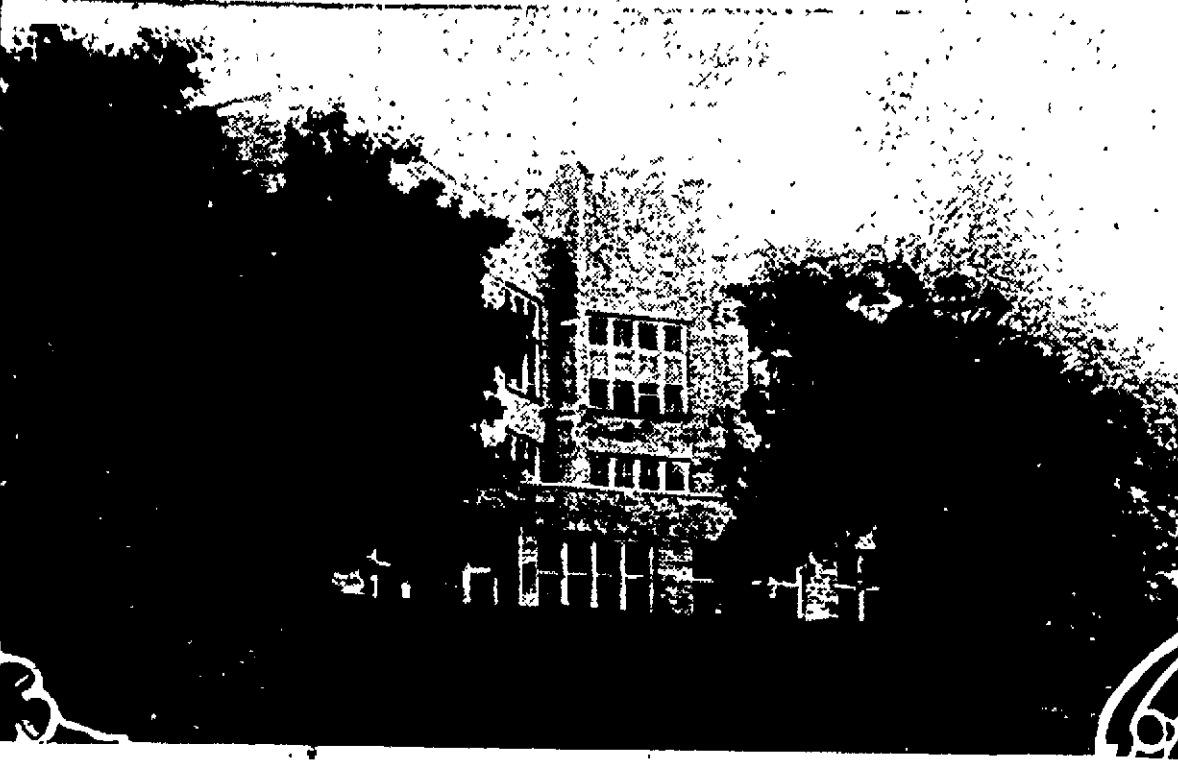

Mrs. Joseph Harlow is at St. Agnes hospital in Fond du Lac where she is recovering from a major surgical operation.

Mrs. Joseph Schweitzer fell at her home Thursday and fractured a bone in her right arm.

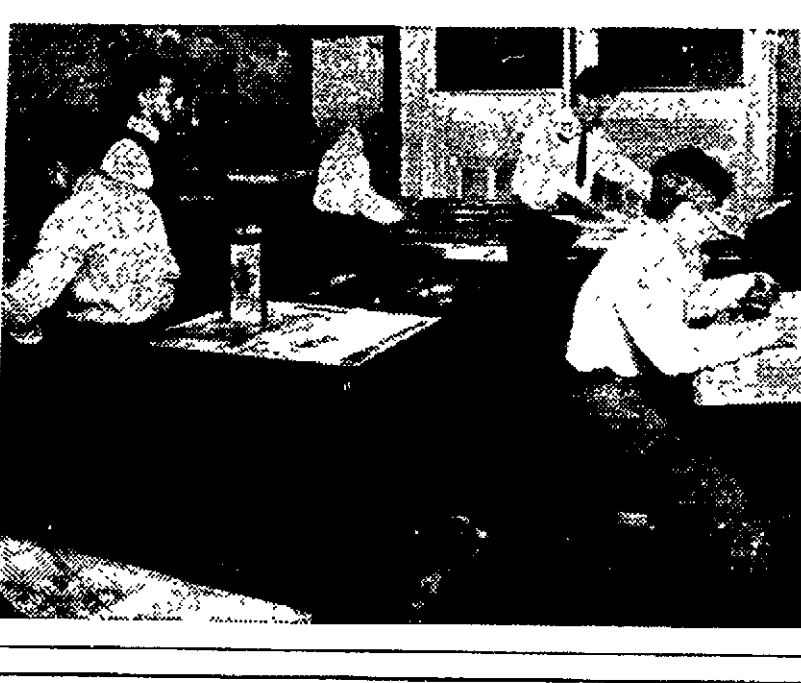

Mr. and Mrs. John Ziegan entertained thirty guests at their home Tuesday in honor of the latter's birthday. The guests were entertained at cards, prizes going to William Schluchter, Elmer Schluchter, Mrs. Roland Wettstein, Mrs. William Schluchter, Paul Pilling, Roland Wettstein, Adolph Guttenberger and Mrs. Adam Schluchter.

Mrs. Oscar Winkler, accompanied by her son Marvin of Chicago and her brother Elmer Steinmetz, left Tuesday morning for Aberdeen, S. D., to visit her sister Mrs. William Reamon, who is seriously ill. Mrs. Reamon will be remembered here as Theresa Steinmetz.

PICTURES REVEAL GROWTH IN INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION HERE

Starting with but a few classes in 1913 in the Post building on S. Appleton street, the vocational education program in Appleton has grown and students now are housed in the magnificent Appleton Vocational school above. One of the early classrooms in printing is shown at the right in a classroom in the Post building. The present vocational school was built in 1919 as the first school exclusively for the purpose of vocational education in the United States. Present and past members of the various board of vocational education met Thursday at the school to honor Charles D. Thompson for his 25 years of service on the board. He is the only present member who served on the original board appointed in 1912. The first class in the Appleton Industrial school met Oct. 1, 1913, in the Post building. Since that time a new school and a new shop addition have been built on E. Kimball street. More than 4,000 students attend day and night classes at the school now.

22 Chicken Pox Cases Are Reported in County

Chicken pox, with 22 cases, headed the list of communicable diseases in Outagamie county during the week ended May 8, according to a state board of health report to Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. The report listed 19 cases of chicken pox, 1 of erysipelas, 6 of scarlet fever and 8 of whooping cough in Appleton. 1 of erysipelas in the town of Black Creek, 1 of scarlet fever in the town of Center, 1 of chicken pox in the town of Grand Chute, 2 of whooping cough in the city of Kaukauna, 1 of pneumonia in the town of Maine, 1 of chicken pox in the town of Maple Creek, 1 of chicken pox and 2 of influenza in the town of Oneida and 1 of influenza in the town of Osborn.

The presentations were made by Cuthbert Ryan, junior high school art instructor.

Under The Capitol Dome

By John Wyngaard
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent

JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Madison—A senate freshman, Michael F. Kresky of Green Bay, startled his veteran colleagues with the threat of a filibuster in the closing hours of last week's session, made good his threat, and got what he wanted, a postponement of the now famous trading stamp bill.

Kresky, who is holding public office for the first time, in his brief service in the legislature's senior house has become one of the most popular of its members. At 10:30 Friday morning he arose and in a serious but determined manner served notice on the house that he was prepared to use every minute of the time remaining before adjournment, and bore out his promise immediately. Suavely, and with the expert command of the language with which he has distinguished himself during this session, he talked. When he took out of his files a pile of clippings, books and documents, however, the house surrendered and agreed to lay over the trading stamp bill.

According to Kresky the senate had entered into a gentleman's agreement early Friday morning to postpone all controversial bills, in which class the trading stamp measure certainly falls. And so when George Hampel, Milwaukee, carried a motion to take up the bill under a suspension of the rules, Kresky was angered.

Democrats in the assembly were somewhat put on the spot when Progressives last week brought on the floor Mrs. Mary Kryszak's resolution to memorialize congress in support of the president's supreme court plan.

Although the resolution was carried by a substantial vote, 14 assembly Democrats balked, and brought down the derision of Progressives upon themselves. Speaker Paul Alfonsi insisted that the resolution furnished a test of liberalism, and inferred that those opposing the proposition are hopelessly conservative.

The Progressive newspaper organ here also gleefully pounced on the roll call as just another instance to prove that "at heart the Democratic politicians and office holders in Wisconsin are not and never were for President Roosevelt on the liberal forward looking measures which he has proposed."

Among the Democrats to receive the Progressives' scorn were floor leaders Maurice Fitzsimmons of Fond du Lac and Cornelius T. Young of Milwaukee, Henry Hupfaut of Calumet county, Harold A. Lytle of Green Bay, Albert D. Shimel of Kewaunee, and Francis A. Yindra of Manitowoc.

Senator John E. Cashman is pulling no punches in his speeches during senate debates this session. About once each week the Denmark veteran arises to deliver some straight from the shoulder observations on a problem which appeals to him strongly. And unlike some of the other members, whose speeches are frequently rambling, tedious, Cashman organizes his remarks thoroughly before delivery, and stops when he reaches the end.

Senator Michael Kresky, Green Bay, to Assemblyman Frank N. Graess, Sturgeon Bay, ardent spokesman for fish conservation legislation: "Frank, if the fish could vote, you'd be president."

"It's about as useful as an education in Greek art," Kenneth White, one of the young attorneys serving in the senate for the first time told a friend who suggested that service in the legislature, with its accompanying experience in practical politics, is valuable training for a young lawyer.

Whether Senator White is right or not, lawyers outnumber representatives of every other occupation except farming in the legislature. Most of them are young, some of them fresh from the law school classrooms.

Dr. Glenn Frank's future is a subject which is keeping many tongues busy here, and there are many high in state politics who would give much to know just what the former state university president plans to do. The possibility most frequently mentioned is his entrance into state politics, either as a candidate for governor or United States senator, on the Republican ticket. Many feel that Frank has a ready-made campaign in his dismissal from the university presidency.

Suggesting that Dr. Frank wants to remain in Wisconsin, friends here reported recently that he has been offered an executive position by the Milwaukee Sentinel, while other rumors say that he has had similar proposals from four or five out of state newspapers.

Undoubtedly there are many members of both houses of the legislature who hope secretly that something can be done about raising their salaries. Now receiving $100 a month for their terms, many of them feel that they are worth more to their constituents, although only one, Assemblyman Donald Ryan, young Milwaukee Democrat, has publicly said so.

An incident at a recent committee meeting illustrates the hesitancy of the legislators to broach the subject of increased pay, and their uncertainty about the reaction of the public. A member had drafted a bill to double present salaries, bringing them to $200 a month, and wanted to have the measure introduced by the committee. Members were willing, but legislative procedure necessitates a formal motion and a second before the committee takes over and introduces a bill, all of which is duly recorded.

Not a single member of the committee would consent to attaching his name to the bill, with the result that it is still reposing in the committee files.

The university's famed philosopher, Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, was the subject of some rough treatment in the state senate debates of last week. His name was injected into the compulsory military training debate, and his prediction that the United States will be communistic in 25 years was the subject of sneers by several members. G. Erle Ingraham observed that a professor's prophecy has never yet been realized, while Fred Risser of Madison remarked that Dr. Meiklejohn "has been the author of one flop idea after another."

Inattention of the committee before which he appeared on the school board budget bill last week, Mr. Meiklejohn, who is a member of the Wisconsin State Board of Education, complained. "They didn't hear a word I said," he complained. Winnebago and Calumet counties sent representatives to argue for passage of a bill establishing civil service examinations for deputy and under sheriffs. Proponents asserted that their jobs must be taken out of politics. Several Democrats in the assembly have threatened to complain to C. E. Broughton, Shelbyville, Democratic national committeeman and editor of the party's Wisconsin organ, that they are not receiving enough publicity in his paper. The bill to prohibit big California movie producers from owning any interest in movie houses in Wisconsin is universally sup-

Avenue Parking Draws Attention Of City Fathers

Council May Order Study Of Conditions on Saturday Nights

A study of parking conditions on College avenue on Saturday evenings may be ordered by the common council at its regular meeting next Wednesday evening, city officials indicated today.

Reports are that parking spaces on College avenue and streets in the immediate vicinity of the downtown district have been extremely hard to find during the last couple months because of the large amount of traffic.

It was suggested to one official that no parking be allowed on the avenue between Drew street and the Chicago and Northwestern railway tracks. Advisability of such a restriction probably will be discussed.

If parking is prohibited on the avenue the council will be faced with the problem of providing parking space near the business district, one official said in discussing the proposal.

McKinley Students See Movies of Alaska Trip

An illustrated lecture on his trip to Alaska was given by E. C. Moore, music instructor and band director in Appleton schools, at the McKinley Junior High school assembly Thursday afternoon. Mr. Moore made his own movies while on the trip.

ported in Waupaca county, Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich of Manawa, told the assembly the other day. "Some of the little fellows in my county won't be able to survive without this bill," he said. "It is more blessed to give than to receive," said Senator Cashman in ironic comment on the fact that in ironic comment on the fact that none of the governor's appointments recently have been in his district. Cashman made his observation when four Milwaukee men were appointed to the building and loan advisory board.

Boileau Loses Fight For Menominee Indians

Washington—Representative Gerald J. Boileau, Wausau, Wis., lost an attempt yesterday to convince members of the house the Menominee Indian tribe of Wisconsin should share in a proposed $200,000 appropriation for the preservation of reservation timber lands.

The house defeated on a standing vote of 43 to 14 his amendment providing part of the funds to the Menominees.

"Why should the Menominees be asked," he discriminated against just because they happen to be one of the few tribes of Indian tribes?" Representative J. E. Johnson (D., Okla.), chairman of the interior appropriations subcommittee which drafted the bill, said the committee "did not feel the Menominees were in great need" since they had $1,500,000 cash on hand.

DIES IN AMBULANCE

Colgate, Okla.—Percy L. Gassaway, 51, Oklahoma's former "cowboy congressman," died at 8 o'clock a. m. today in an ambulance enroute to Ada after suffering a heart attack at his ranch home near here.

Gassaway, whose cowboy hat, high boots, and western mannerisms became widely known in Washington, was defeated for reelection last November by Lyle Boren of Seminole.

Gassaway was a leader in Democratic politics in southeastern Oklahoma and was a former district judge.

Waupaca County Pioneer Succumbs

Minor S. Rice, 89, Dies After Illness of Three Months

Waupaca—Minor S. Rice, 89, resident of Waupaca county for more than 80 years, died late Friday afternoon at his home, 623 Lake street, following an illness of three months.

He was born April 20, 1848, in the town of Brussels, N. Y. Coming to Wisconsin in 1855, his family settled in Little Wolf township, Waupaca, during the Civil war. He walked 16 miles to Giles Landing and boarded a steamboat to Oshkosh to enlist. He refused $2,000 to go as a substitute, preferring to go for himself. At the close of the war he was given an honorable discharge.

On July 4, 1868, he married Margaret J. Hanna, in St. Lawrence township. After farming for 55 years he retired in 1914 and moved to Waupaca after the death of his wife. He was married Nov. 25, 1915, to Mrs. Carrie Mead.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows for 60 years and James A. Garfield post, No. 21, G. A. R. Waupaca. His death leaves only two living members of the post. For 40 years he was a member of the Free and Accepted Masons and the Rebekah lodge.

Survivors are widow, three daughters, Mrs. Harry Herbert, Mrs. Roy Rich and Mrs. John Huffcut, Ogdensburg; five sons, George, Bernard, Jesse, Wesley and Robert, Ogdensburg.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the residence and 2:30 at the Baptist church, Ogdensburg, the Rev. G. N. Doody, of the First Baptist church, Waupaca, in charge. Interment will be in Ogdensburg cemetery.

Three Pay Fines On Speed Charges

Three motorists pleaded guilty of speeding when they were arraigned before County Judge F. V. Heinemann, acting municipal judge, this morning, and each was fined $10 and costs.

Walter Ancell, 223 Chute street, Menasha, was arrested at 7:20 this morning and accused of driving 43 miles an hour on N. Badger avenue, Leland Neubauer, 509 First street, Menasha, arrested last night, was accused of going 38 miles an hour on S. Oneida street, Orville Swinkles, Little Chute, who was arrested early Friday morning, also was accused of speeding on S. Oneida street.

Clarence Van Camp, Little Chute, pleaded not guilty to a speed charge when he appeared before Municipal Judge Thomas H. Ryan Friday afternoon and trial was set for Wednesday morning. Appleton police made the arrests.

Military Training Duty Of Youth, Immell Says

LaCrosse—Brigadier General Ralph M. Immell, adjutant general of the state of Wisconsin, said it was the duty of American youth to participate in military training in an address last night to the Wisconsin Reserve Officers' convention.

"It is not only their duty to train," Immell said, "but their right so that they can strike the hardest possible blow with the least possible danger to themselves and to bring peace as quickly as it can be brought."

See First Apparent Move to Unionize Workers in Ford Plants at Detroit

Detroit—The first apparent move of the Ford Motor company to oppose unionization of its 150,000 employees in the United States was revealed today.

An announcement that cards bearing Henry Ford's views on labor organizations and policies will be circulated among the workers Monday came soon after the union indicated that it would seek a closed shop in General Motors plants.

Conferees last night between union officials and the management of two strike-closed General Motors plants at Saginaw provided for the men to return to work Monday, with negotiations of the disputes opening the same day.

Harry H. Bennett, Ford personnel director, made public the cards—labeled "Fordisms"—that will be circulated among the employees.

"We have always made a better bargain for our men than an outsider could," they inform the workers. "We have never had to bargain against our men. And we don't expect to begin now."

"We're only trying to show who owns the collar," it continues. "Figure it out for yourself. If you go into a union, they have got you and what have you got?"

The cards conclude with the statement that "a little group of those who control both capital and labor will sit down in New York and settle prices, dividends and wages."

No Agreement

Ford is the only major automobile producer with which the U. A. W. has no agreement. The union announced only yesterday the formation of a steering committee to direct the campaign it will open formally next week to organize Ford employees.

Home, Martin, U. A. W. A. president, went to Saginaw to effect the truce in the strikes that closed the Chevrolet Grey Iron foundry and the G. M. Malleable Iron division. The closures had left 7,000 employees of the two plants idle.

Before leaving Detroit he signed that the union would seek to alter its agreement with General Motors so as to have non-union labor from the corporation's plants. None of the agreements signed by the U. A. W. and automobile manufacturers so far provides for a closed shop.

Van Rooy Gets Night Post at Courthouse

Benjamin Van Rooy, 1335 E. South River street, was named night janitor for the Outagamie county courthouse at a meeting of the building and grounds committee Friday afternoon. The selection was made on the third ballot after the committee had questioned about 30 applicants and deliberated an hour on their qualifications.

Van Rooy was named temporary night janitor following the death of John Newland, day janitor, early in March. At that time, Frank Harzheim, night janitor, was given the day job temporarily and his appointment was made permanent by the committee recently.

VISITS HOSPITAL

Edward E. Lutz, county service officer, visited the Veterans' Administration hospital at Milwaukee Friday where 13 Outagamie county veterans are receiving treatment. One Outagamie county resident is among those on the waiting list for admission to the hospital.

Scores Board for Its Opposition To Land Purchase

Defends Interpretation of Indian Reorganization Act in Oneida

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Staunchly defending the Indian Reorganization act and the Indian bureau's interpretation of it in Oneida, Indian Commissioner John Collier criticized the Oneida town board and their attorney, G. F. Clifford, of Green Bay, for their attitude on purchase of land for Indians in Oneida.

The town board has protested that the government is placing Indians on desirable property in the town of Oneida, which otherwise would yield taxes. They also protested the additional burden to Oneida for educating Indian children in local schools.

Commissioner Collier informed Sen. F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac that neither Clifford nor the Oneida town board, which adopted a resolution supporting repeal of the Indian Reorganization act, has a very clear idea of the purpose of the act or the manner in which it operates.

States Intention

He pointed out that the intention of the legislation is to add to the economic resources of Indian tribes, and to make them less, not more, dependent upon local and federal government aid.

While it is true, he added, that land purchased for Indians will be removed from the local tax list, the community should not lose sight of the fact that Indians for whom land is bought, and who have as a result some means of subsistence, are to be preferred to Indians living continually on the verge of starvation.

The town of Oneida is fearful that if the federal government purchases land in its vicinity Indians who are not now in the community will be attracted there," declared Commissioner Collier.

"As a matter of fact, no Indians will be settled on any such land purchase who do not now have a right to be there. This office does not have information to show to what extent the Oneida Indians participate in local politics, and can see no reason why the fact of their organizing as a tribal government and having land purchased for them will increase their participation in local town affairs."

Share of Cost

Collier said that in the past the community has felt it bore a disproportionate share in the cost of supporting public schools.

"Whether or not there is any justification for this feeling I should like to point out that the reason why the federal government did not participate to a greater extent in meeting the cost of educating Indian children was the fact that the Oneida Indians had largely passed out of government supervision by reason of their having been granted fee patents and their land holdings, Collier said.

He added that when land is bought for the Oneida Indians, the government will increase its share of responsibility in educational and other matters.

According to Collier, the statement by Clifford and the Oneida town board that the promise of the department to contribute property to the upkeep of schools where children are living on trust patented land is a mere promise by some individual, belittles the intent of congress which year after year has appropriated money for payment of tuition where Indian children live on tax free lands.

Contracts to Continue

The department makes contracts each year with many different school districts and there is no reason to believe that these will be suddenly discontinued, Collier stated.

These matters, the Indian bureau executive said, should be considered by the Oneida town board and Clifford before they decide that the Indian Reorganization act is inimical to their interests.

"They should realize too," he added, "that repeal of this legislation will mean a continuation of conditions of the past, against which they have protested. The answer is not to go backward, but to continue ahead with this program until it begins to achieve the results intended."

"Not the Oneida Indians alone," he declared, "but some 282,000 Indians of the United States and Alaska look to this legislation as the way out of their present poverty and lack of opportunity."

English Professor To Speak at Convocation

Warren N. Beuz, associate professor of English at Lawrence college, will speak at a student convocation at Memorial chapel Monday morning.

Bishop E. L. Waldorf of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church will speak Wednesday morning and the a cappella choir will sing. A musical program will be presented at the Friday convocation by Sigma Alpha Iota sorority.

Economics Lesson Shown in Report Of Standard Oil

Lawrence Points to Profits On Large Volume of Sales at Low Prices

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Large volume of sales, low prices—result; big profits!

This is a lesson which has been preached over and over again in recent years, but there is no better example of how well it works than in the figures just made public in the annual report of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Out of a total of 278,000 barrels of oil sold the "average profit which accrued to the parent company last year was less than three-fourths of a cent per gallon of petroleum products sold."

This margin of three-fourths of a cent was smaller than "the least onerous of the gasoline taxes, that of one cent per gallon collected by the federal government." And curiously enough, the average of both federal and state taxes per gallon was "nearly eight times the company's net earnings per gallon."

What is most revealing is that, notwithstanding the fact that commodities are at a higher level than they have been in recent years, retail gasoline prices along the Atlantic coast were approximately 50 per cent less last year than they were ten years ago, excluding, of course, taxes.

Tribute to Producers
This is tribute to the efficiency of oil producers generally and an interesting commentary on what a large slice of the gasoline price to the consumer is now going to the tax collectors.

But, apart from the big tax payments on gasoline, the standard oil company managed to accumulate for 1936 about $84,813,000 of profit out of that three-fourths of a cent per gallon margin. The company had about $13,000,000 of profits from other activities, but it is a significant thing that small margin on big volume brought a return to the stockholders of about $3.73 per share.

Several interesting points suggest themselves. Could the prices of gasoline be kept so low to the public and could any companies of much smaller size operate successfully on a margin of three-fourths of a cent a gallon?

Clearly, the competition in the oil business is keen and there are companies of varying sizes operating at a profit, but the major companies have the major share of the market and they apparently can operate at a fair margin of return on their investment by selling at relatively low prices but on a large scale of transactions.

Want Tax Certainty
An enterprise like the Standard Oil company of New Jersey cannot, of course, continue to become more and more efficient and keep its prices down if it cannot make the necessary improvements in its processes of production, refinement and distribution. Hence, it is interesting to read in the annual report a plea for a better system of taxes.

"Your management," says the report, "feels that this plea for simplification of and soundness in federal revenue laws and their administration is in the long run just as important to the government's revenues as it is to the corporate taxpayer. We must, and desire to contribute our full share of the needed national revenue, but we could do a better job of future planning and employment if we could rely on the continuance of certain basic principles of a tax system and could compute and budget tax costs on certainties rather than guess-work."

The company is particularly pointed in its criticism of the undistributed surplus tax as an impediment to the expansion of its business and the improvements that can be made for the public's benefit in the furnishing of fuel for America's motor cars. The report adds:

Question Surplus Tax
"If the surplus on undistributed earnings remains as a part of the law, then the following results appear to be inevitable:
"1. Corporate earnings will bear an excessive and a larger tax burden than any other kind of income.
"2. Returns on corporate investments will be penalized and new capital for private enterprises will be more and more difficult to obtain.
"3. The time-honored and customary securing of working capital by loans or bond issues will cease to be cause such debts cannot be paid out of future earnings without prohibitive tax penalties.
"4. A company with no back-log or inadequate reserves will be hurt first. Those with greater reserves will be vitally affected when capital needs have absorbed their available cash resources.
"5. It is an economic fallacy to compel a company to pay out in the form of dividends each year money it needs as a working surplus, or to retain such needed surplus only on penalty of sacrificing a sizeable percentage of it through surtax. Rehabilitation or expansion programs; adequate reserves for loss periods; the continued security of employment for workers; and the beginning or development of new industries, will all suffer."

126,000 Shareholders
Finally, it might be asked, who is the Standard Oil company of New Jersey? The report answers that question thus:
"At the close of 1936, there were 126,000 shareholders. The average number of shares owned was 217. Of the individuals on the books, 60,780 were men and 49,371 women. Besides these individuals, a great many fiduciary and philanthropic

Members of Epworth League Leave for Meet

Kaukauna—Ten members of the Epworth league of the Brook Memorial Methodist Episcopal church left at noon today for Wausau where they will attend the annual convention of the Appleton district of the organization. The convention will be finished tomorrow and the Kaukauna young people will return tomorrow night.

The following members made the trip: Harry Woods, Versil Belonger, Bernard Busse, Norman Ahe, Ruth Sanderson, Blanche McIntyre, Frieda Bloy, Lucille Bloy, Zena Belonger, and Robert Knox.

Trusts looked to Standard Oil company dividends for a dependable income.

The whole report is an enlightened document on many other aspects of modern business, including labor relations and a discussion of the responsibility of large scale business to the public, and is a significant example of how companies predominantly owned by the public are manifesting a deep sense of their obligation to the public interest.

Music Groups at High School Will Enter Tournament

Band, Orchestra, Glee Clubs to Attend District Meet in DePere

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna High school band, orchestra, and boys and girls glee clubs will be entered in the district band tournament bringing together 3,000 students musicians from 28 schools at West DePere next Saturday. A crowd of 140, including players, singers, and the two directors, Miss Lucille Austin and Clarence Kriesa, will leave here by train next Saturday morning and return that night.

For the Kaukauna groups, next Saturday's contest will mean the climax of over two months of work. Besides the musical competition, the 47-piece band will be entered in the marching contest which will be held late in the afternoon following the parade. Janet McCarty is drum major for the band which has been holding maneuvering drills outdoors for the past three weeks.

Playing and singing contests at the tournament will start at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue until 11:30 when a drilling exhibition will be given by Q. T. C. students of St. Norbert college on the campus.

Resume Contests
Contests will be resumed at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and will be concluded at 3:30. A half-hour will be allowed for hands to prepare for the parade, the big outdoor feature of the tournament. Dinner will be served at the college at 4 o'clock to musical directors, superintendents, and principals.

At 7 o'clock in the evening, Class A bands will begin competition in the college gym where all the bands will play. Following this contest, the St. Norbert college band will play a concert and judges will meet to complete the classification of the various musical groups. Announcements of awards will be made at 10 o'clock.

The Kaukauna band, competing in Class C, will first play a warming-up march, "Swing Along." The required number "Bonora Overture" by Holmes and the selected number "Francaise Militaire" by St. Saens.

The orchestra, made up of 22 pieces and entered in Class D, will play the required piece, "In Apollo's Temple," and as its string number, the chorale, "Break Forth Oh Beateaus Night" by Bach. The selected number for the orchestra is the second movement in De Lamater's "Miniature Symphony."

Numbers which will be sung by the two glee clubs will be the direction of Miss Austin will be announced later.

Kaw Tracksters Place at Meet

Lambie and Peterson are Eligible for State Tournament

Kaukauna—Two Kaukauna High school track athletes, Leland Lambie and William Peterson, won places in the district meet at Green Bay yesterday and will go to the state meet at Madison.

The long-striding Lambie took first in the quarter-mile, racing the distance in 55 seconds flat, his best time of the year. Undeclared in competition this season, he beat Clarke of New London yesterday for the second time in a week.

Peterson ran third in the 120-yard hurdles and fourth in the 100-yard dash, but will be entered only in the first event in the state meet. Coach Paul Little said last night. The high hurdle race was won in 15.9 seconds.

Other Kaukauna men who competed in the district meet yesterday were Schubring, high hurdles; DeMunier and Cooper, 880; and Vandenberg, mile.

A crowd of about 25 Kaukauna fans, most of them high school students, attended the meet held in the stadium of West Green Bay high school.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. Don Anderson is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Plan Organization of Unit of Honor Society

Kaukauna Club Plants 125,000 Pike Fingerlings

Kaukauna—Steps toward the foundation of a chapter of the National Honor Society, scholastic and activity honorary for high school students, have been taken by a committee of three faculty members appointed by Superintendent James P. Cavanaugh. Miss Frances Corry, Miss Ethelyn Handran and Coach Paul Little.

The drafting of a constitution, which must be approved by the national headquarters of the society, and the drawing up of a formal application for admission must be made. The committee is in correspondence with H. V. Church of Chicago, executive secretary of the society.

In order to be eligible for the society, a student must be at least a junior, hold a scholastic rating in the upper third of his class, and have an excellent record in service to his school and character. A vote of the faculty usually decides membership in the society.

Charter members will be chosen from the present junior and senior classes and prospective members may be named from the sophomore class.

Members of Cap and Bells, Kaukauna High school dramatic society, presented two plays, "The Florist Shop" and "An Excellent Thing in Women," this week before a gathering of the club.

The plays were directed by Miss Alice Gruenberger. The cast for "The Florist Shop," which will be presented this month before the Kaukauna Women's club, is as follows: Maud, Lucille Faust, Henry, R. Specht; Mr. Slovski, Russell Toms; Miss Wells, Genevieve Vrensch; Mr. Jackson, Alton McDermid.

The cast for "An Excellent Thing in Women," which is built around a telephone conversation, is composed of Jean LaBorde, T. Weber, and M. Vanevenhoven.

Softball Teams Elect Captains

Play Will Begin in Boys' And Girls' Leagues Next Week

Kaukauna—Class captains for the girls' and boys' softball leagues that will be started next Monday and Tuesday at Kaukauna High school under the direction of Clifford Kemp were elected at a meeting of players this week.

Leaders of the girls teams are as follows: Mary Alice Flanagan, freshmen; Gertrude Renn, sophomores; Marie Rademacher, juniors; Mildred Maley, seniors. Captains of the boys softball teams are: Steve Andreksi, freshmen; Sherman Powers, sophomores; William McCormick, juniors; Ves Hanby, seniors.

The first game will be played on the baseball field on the library playgrounds at 3:30 Monday afternoon between the freshmen and sophomore boys. Tuesday afternoon at the same time the freshmen and sophomore girls will open competition in their league.

90 People Attend Dinner Given by Eastern Star Unit
Kaukauna—Ninety people attended the dinner for members of the Odile chapter, No. 184, Order of Eastern Star, and their families which was held at the lodge rooms last night, preceding initiation ceremonies in which three candidates were taken into the organization. Guests from chapters at Green Bay, Grafton and Red Granite were present.

Walter P. Hagman, principal of the Outagamie Rural Normal school, who was recently elected district governor of Rotary at the Ironwood, Mich., convention, was presented with a gift.

Vocal solos by George Nixon of Appleton and cello solos by the Rev. F. C. Sanderson of the Brook Memorial Methodist Episcopal church were presented on the program.

250 Members of Holy Name Groups To Attend Rally

Kaukauna High School Band Also Will March In Parade

Kaukauna—A crowd of 250 men, representing the Holy Name societies and parishes of the Holy Cross and St. Mary's Catholic churches of this city, will attend the rally of the Green Bay diocesan union of the societies and march in the parade tomorrow in Menasha-Menasha.

The two cities have made festive preparations for the event, expected to draw over 10,000 people.

Although activities will open at 10 o'clock in the morning with a field mass at the St. John Parish grounds in Menasha, most of the Kaukauna delegation will not leave until 12:30 in the afternoon from the high school.

Besides the members of the two societies and other Catholic men who will make the trip in private cars, the Kaukauna High school band under the direction of Clarence Kriesa will leave from the high school in a bus. The band will march in front of the Kaukauna delegation in the parade which will start at 2:30 in the afternoon in Menasha and proceed to the St. Margaret Mary church in Neenah where closing ceremonies will be held.

Band to Meet
Kriesa said yesterday that members of the band would meet at noon in front of the high school and play several numbers while preparations for departure were being made.

Leonard Ryan will act as marshal for the Kaukauna delegation. Joseph McCarty has been chairman of the committee planning this city's part in the rally. He has been assisted by Herman Mues, president of the Holy Cross Holy Name society, John Van De Loo, president of the St. Mary's society, Al Hartzheim, Albert Schmidt, and George Greenwood.

A number of the men will leave the city about 9:30 tomorrow morning to be present at the rally's opening mass.

THE LABOR DISPUTES ACT IN A TRY-OUT

The first flaw in the new Wisconsin Labor Disputes Act has risen to the surface at Fort Atkinson and appears to be the cause of one of the strikes there.

The law declares that the Board "may take a secret ballot of employees or utilize any other suitable method to ascertain such representatives", referring to the lawful representatives of the workers.

The Board did not take a secret ballot but determined the lawful representatives by the records of the participating unions. This is obviously a dangerous procedure because the records may be in controversy and it becomes the more dangerous because of pending contests between the C.I.O. and the A.F.L.

The secret ballot has become the recognized American procedure because it reveals the true state of mind of the employees uninfluenced by duress, coercion or other intermeddling from any source.

The charge has been freely booted about in the past largely from the employers, but claimed to be based upon complaints by the employees, that sharp practices are indulged in by organizers to gain their ends in claiming to represent majorities, and while this charge may often have been exaggerated, enough evidence has been presented to show that it has some basis in fact, and in a tight election might be the determining factor.

With the legislature still in session there is time to correct the flaw and save the interested parties from conflict.

Certainly the secret ballot is the only effective and satisfactory means of arriving at the truth.

WHOLESALE MEDICAL CARE

The Biemiller bill with the purpose of collecting a payroll tax of 27 million dollars a year in Wisconsin, providing sick benefits and medical treatment for employed persons, would find rough going in actual operation insofar as medical treatment is concerned because of personal or human considerations that cannot possibly be eradicated.

With rare exceptions any sort of work, whether with the pick and shovel in the street or the surgeon's needle in an operating room, depends for efficiency to a material extent upon considerations of an individual nature, including satisfactory pay and appeasement of ambition. Contract medicine, that is the payment of a certain amount per month for medical attention, has not been very satisfactory but even its record is better than could be anticipated where the patient has no right to withdraw his support but his pay is checked out and goes through the public channels to the physician as a matter of course.

Again there is that substantial percentage that every reputable medical board in the country would determine need no attention whatever but who would spend half their lives sitting in a doctor's office demanding attention for imaginary ills so long as they did not have to pay for it.

The fact that almost every doctor worthy of the name will treat a genuine case of illness gratis so long as he is satisfied the person has no money fills a great gap. Nor should those in favor of this dream bill forget that people who have plenty of means seldom and die with all the ailments to which anyone else is heir, and just as fast and just as often.

Adequate compensation to the worker will provide plenty to pay his own medical way unless it is the purpose of the state to carry him around on a feather pillow.

LONG LIVE THE KING!

The fanfare of trumpets is stilled, the canopy of pomp is laid away in mothballs. The king is crowned; long live the king!

However one may choose to view the British way of doing things, he must admit his cousins across the sea know how to stage a show. The events of Coronation week will be the material of grandfathers' tales.

We do things differently, of course. There are concessions to public interest when a President takes the oath of office, grandstands for the bigwigs, an open-face speaking platform exposed to the elements, gold-braided uniforms and tall silk hats.

But ours is a sorry show when compared with the glory that surrounds the investiture of the crown.

Which is as it should be. We are more democratic, presumably in spirit. At least our politicians make the statement, often and loudly, whenever election days are near. Not for us the trappings of circumstance, the velvets and satins of hereditary rank.

But we do like a show, too. Some of us remember other coronations. However, they were before the days of candid cameras, news reels and radios. On this recent occasion, we have had ringside seats.

Splendid! We have come to know the British better. We have a clearer understanding of the traditions, the beliefs, the loyalties that make the British wheels go 'round.

And greater understanding promotes greater friendliness. The world needs the latter desperately.

MEN WHO NEED A MASTER

For several months there has persistently floated over the Spanish border the rumor of an approaching revolution among the Reds.

It seemed so wild and fantastic an idea that those who heard it classed it with a lot of other equally wild declarations that sifted through at Hendaye or Perpignan. But the unbelievable is true. The anarchists have revolted against the Madrid government. And they have done so in sufficient numbers and with deadly enough results that curiosity insists upon knowing the reason why the Reds cannot get along together.

It will be well to remember that in the Barcelona district there has grown up through the centuries a series of textile industries. They were manned by the anarchists. In addition to supplying the Spanish market the management of these industries, slowly and laboriously throughout the generations, built up a foreign business. They ascertained the demands of certain alien lands and then manufactured textiles to meet those demands and within the compass of the foreign pocket-book.

Persistently there came over the Spanish border the declared ambition of the anarchists to take over these textile industries because they were not satisfied with the way they were run in many particulars. When the revolution gave the opportunity the anarchists had the plants in their hands.

And what would one expect as the first thing for the anarchists to do thereafter? They discontinued manufacturing for foreign countries. They declared that it was beneath the purpose upon this earth of a Spaniard to slave for foreigners. When the loyalist government explained to them that the foreign produce they liked and ate could not be procured if Spain's foreign business went on the rocks the noble anarchists declared that was all a figment of the imagination, just something to fool the toiling masses, one of the many reasons indeed that had been advanced in order to "exploit the working man." So the anarchists sat tight. And their business faded out of the window. And they rather liked that because it made the hours shorter.

But the rest of eastern Spain worked long hours trying to make up for the expense and wastage of war. The others left the anarchists alone for quite a while. But a good anarchist wants to push anarchy and all its salutary results to other toilers. And so came the inevitable clash.

The reason this rumor, so often in the past floating over the Spanish border, was cast aside as a joke lay in the inability of those who heard it to believe that anyone could be quite so stupid as these anarchists. It is useless to attempt to analyze their reasoning processes. But it is not going too far to say they do not run parallel with other human mental activities. It has been a great stroke for General Franco, not only for the furtherance of the Rebel cause in military affairs but as a justification for the rebellion itself.

There seem to be tens of thousands of these anarchists in Spain. Assuredly they are wholly unable to govern themselves. The only contest is who shall be their master. For only a reckless man would fail to see their necessity for a master of some sort.

Opinions Of Others

THE DEPRESSION OF 546 B. C.

Panic and depressions are of no recent origin. They have been with us, off and on, for thousands of years. The Hebrew depression of 546 B. C. was in its small sphere even more severe than the present unpleasantness and required far more drastic measures to alleviate. The popular prophets and economists of those times were not modern enough to blame the "hard times" on anything like over production. They were more inclined to lay them to "the wrath of God because of the sins of the people"—and in the last analysis, perhaps they were not so far wrong.

How that master economist, Nehemiah, handled the situation in his day may be found in Chapter V of the Book of Nehemiah. Nehemiah tells how the people complained and what measures he took for their relief. We have mortgaged our lands, vineyards, and houses that we might buy corn, because of the dearth. There were also that said, We have borrowed money for the King's tribute, and that upon our lands and vineyards. . . and lo! we bring into bondage our sons and our daughters to be servants. . . neither is it in our power to redeem them; for other men have our lands and vineyards.

And I was very angry when I heard their cry and their words. Then I consulted with myself, and I rebuked the nobles and the rulers, and said unto them, Ye exact usury, every one of his brother. And I set a great assembly against them. And I said unto them, We after our ability have redeemed our brethren the Jews which

It was nice, indeed, to hear that Dick Merrill had successfully made the round-trip from New York to London via air, particularly since his success came so soon after the Hindenburg crashed. . . for Merrill to have failed would have been too severe a blow for aviation to absorb just now. . . and yet a far worse blow to aviation will be that race across the Atlantic. . .

Probably my nerves wouldn't get me through a trip on the Graf Zeppelin just now, even if I could afford a trip on the older sister of the Hindenburg. But fill it with helium, give me the fare, and off I'd go.

One reason is the fact that no sea sickness has ever been experienced aboard a zep in recent years.

Glad that British inquiry seems to show that a mine caused the explosion that damaged a British ship and killed eight men. If the Spanish officials were right, and a German torpedo was the cause, I'd suggest that we hang on to our hats.

An operation on a Schenectady, N. Y., man brought forth a gold dollar dated 1852. The coin was found in his esophagus and is supposed to be worth upwards of $5. Well, it may help pay the cost of the operation.

Wallis Warfield (it used to be Simpson, too) will be known as the Duchess of Windsor, but NOT as "her royal highness." This, of course, is how British nobility hopes to get even with Wallis.

Well, maybe they can retain the "royal highness," but Wallis still gets the Duke.

PLANNING OUR VACATION

This is the time of year we plan The family's vacation. A dozen colored maps we scan To choose where we evening go. We argue the whole evening through About our destination. . . And then draw strings, as children do. For Maine or Mexico!

Sometimes to California We travel sunny highways. Around the table, Ma and Pa Make plans to see the towns. We drag out the geography And read up on the byways. The women of the family All window-shop for gowns.

Each Spring we read the travel guides (This year it is a trailer That we desire!) then Pa-decides The bills must come before! As always, with our girls and boy, (Since Pa must pay the bill!) We'll take a place we all enjoy— A cottage on the shore! (Copyright, 1937) were sold unto the heathen; and will ye even sell your brethren? Then they held their peace and found nothing to answer. Nehemiah then went on to tell what his drastic plan was. He spoke to the nobles and rulers as follows:

I pray you, let us leave off this usury. Restore, I pray you, to them, even this day, their lands, their vineyards, their oliveyards, and their houses, also the hundredth part of their money, and of the corn, and wine, and the oil that ye exact of them. Then they said, We will restore them.

It might be interesting on a quiet Sunday afternoon when the rain keeps the car in the garage, to take down the Hebrew Scriptures and read how Nehemiah's plan worked out. It may be an impracticable plan for nations as large as those of today, and one requiring a battalion of Mussolinis to put into effect, but it worked well in a small nation twenty-five centuries ago. In any event, it makes an interesting story and bears on its face the stamp of historical truth.

EVIDENTLY THOSE LITTLE WASHINGTON FISH DON'T EVEN GIVE HIM A WORK OUT

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

EAT, FAST AND BE TOO OLD
Manifestations of cardiovascular degeneration in its incipient or earliest stage are scarcely sufficient to alarm the victim. The symptoms (changes the subject may perceive) and signs (changes the physician may find by periodic examinations or health audits) of beginning arteriosclerosis, hypertrophy of heart and so on, are only gradual and hence for a great many heedless young folk sensibility rather than life begins at forty.

At thirty to forty, the very prime of life for man or woman, one naturally dislikes to recognize a slight falling off in physical or mental efficiency or both, a slight decrease in former ambition or "pep." One wants to go on laughing at doctors and their incessant croaking about rules of hygiene and right living. One is inclined to think that only morbid or credulous persons spend good money and time undergoing fool health examinations annually or at all. One would rather try this or that nostrum if occasionally one has a little "stomach trouble" or "liver complaint" or "auto-intoxication," or take some tonic or other when one feels run down from "overwork" or "nervous exhaustion" from business or domestic cares and responsibilities.

Signs that suggest beginning cardiovascular degeneration but are not diagnostic are (1) accumulation of excess weight after the age of thirty-three years; (2) tendency to grow short of breath after moderate exertion which formerly did not tax the "wind"; (3) inability to hold the breath at least thirty seconds when at rest; (4) inability to run half a mile without getting "windy"; (5) pulse rate which remains rapid more than three minutes after twenty deep knee flexions.

The appearance of minute dilated venules ("broken capillaries") in the skin of the cheeks, nose and elsewhere—what casual observers call florid complexion and, with the complicity that often accompanies it, the "picture of health" is more likely the picture of early arteriosclerosis, premature senility.

Many men in the incipient stage of cardiovascular degeneration drift along with the false assurance they get from having successfully passed a life insurance examination. Such an examination does not disclose the early stage signs of cardiovascular degeneration, nor is the life insurance examiner concerned about other health deficiencies which may be the only manifestations of this heart and artery failure in early adult life, not conclusive symptoms but suggestive, such as increasing sallowness, coarseness, harshness and dryness of the skin, dull gray congested eyes, stomach troubles and dull headache to which one was not subject when in ordinary health, hair turning prematurely gray, chronic tired feeling not relieved by much rest or by a vacation, staleness, mental torpor, poor circulation, cold hands and feet.

Wrong eating habits may be considered a fundamental cause of cardiovascular degeneration, and I believe it is how fast you eat more than how much that determines how early you will grow old.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Chronic Running Ear
I am sixteen. I am unable to hear my left ear. I had an abscess in it when I was small, and three years ago infection from the water at the beach. There is a foul discharge much of the time. (V. O. C.)

Answer—It is a serious condition and should have thorough treatment by your physician or an ear specialist. If you cannot have proper treatment, avoid putting oils or ointments in ear, avoid wearing cotton or other plug, apply twice daily a drop or two of agreeably warmed solution of 10 grains of boric acid in an ounce of pure grain alcohol. Warm it by standing the vial in warm water. Continue using the drops for several months, but only if you are unable to have the condition treated by a physician.

Healthy Girls
Should my twelve-year-old daughter play basketball and dance? She wants to take toe-dancing. Anything injurious in these activities for a girl of her age? Mrs. T. C. L.

Answer—On the contrary, such activities are rather beneficial for girls, that is, when pursued in the privacy of the school or class. The only harm comes where school-girls are permitted to engage in exhibitions as professional rather than amateur players. Every mother with a young daughter should send stamped addressed envelope for advice about special hygiene for girls. (Copyright, 1937)

Your Birthday

"TAURUS"
If May 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until noon, from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m. from 6 to 8 p. m. and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

This should be a very peaceful day, for the spiritual feelings of many people will have a favorable reaction upon those who are not so minded. You will not have to make any great effort to get yourself into a contented state of mind, and by so doing make this not only a happy day for yourself, but for others as well. Some sort of social diversion is advisable, and friendly gatherings or family reunions are apt to prove most successful. You perhaps will have some evidence that you are a very lucky person before the day passes. Money or its equivalent appears to be the medium through which your life is going to be brightened. You are due to be relieved of many worries, and a vast amount of happiness seems predestined to flow in your direction. Courage and perseverance are the only mainstays you need until it arrives. Married and engaged couples, and those upon whom Cupid has smiled, must let unselfishness dominate their lives this day, so as to enjoy it thoroughly.

If a woman and May 16 is your birthday, you ought to be very sagacious, discriminating, honest and affectionate. You likely have nimble fingers, and a glib tongue. Mental proportions and grandeur in all its varied forms may inspire you to do some worthwhile work. You ought to be very artistic. The chances are that through your underrating your own ability you have permitted some talent to remain dormant. If you make good use of the gifts Nature has bestowed upon you, your rewards will be worthwhile. As a sculptor, artist, musician, interior decorator, designer, entertainer or a business executive you ought to find a field of activity that will prove highly profitable. Marriage has, perhaps, a great deal to offer you in the way of conjugal bliss.

The child born on May 16 should be physically and mentally alert. In its early teens it probably will lay the foundation for many enduring friendships, which will help it to fashion its future career.

If a man and May 16 is your natal day, you may be the instrumentality of much good coming into the lives of many people. Indications are you will be a very successful man, if you can but withstand the vicissitudes of fortune. As a lawyer, politician, doctor, actor, manufacturer, broker, banker or writer your achievements may be noteworthy.

Successful People Born on May 16:

Ebenzer Emmons, geologist.
Levi P. Morton, financier and statesman.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER
New York—Joe Cook relays the hilarious anecdote about the Manhattan doctor who was so busy that even patients had difficulty gaining an audience.

One day a fellow arrived and asked for an interview. "You'll have to take off your clothes," the nurse informed him. "The doctor is so busy he hasn't time to wait for you to undress." So the man took off his clothes, and after a wait the doctor rushed in.

"What seems to be the trouble with you?" he inquired, motioning him to a pair of office scales. "Nothing," said the fellow. "I'm just the collector from the gas company—you're overdue on payments."

Which recalls the one about the judge who visited his dentist for an extraction. Just as the gas was putting him under the dentist was startled to hear him boom: "Do you swear to pull the tooth, the whole tooth, and nothing but the tooth?"

Red-Haired Constance Cummings, who graduated to stardom from the musical comedy halls of New York, is the star of a new hit. A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—There is no way to tell whether they planned it that way, but this drive of Roosevelt supporters to cut the relief budget put the President in a handsome strategic position.

Long before he sent down the relief bill, the President was bombarded by governors and mayors to add at least $700,000,000 to it so it would be $2,200,000,000.

To counteract some of this big relief money talk, the President sprayed congress with a warning of wider and worse deficits. But even then he was left in the position of denying a fat relief figure for the hungry mouths the mayors and governors said they had. Then, just at a moment when he might have expected cries of distress to come from the hungry hinterland, there arose this drive, led by his staunchest supporters, for cutting relief and other appropriations.

Instead of being the harsh relief-cutter, Roosevelt became the staunch protagonist of the relief workers, the man who was to save their $1,500,000,000 against the onslaughts of chinchy congressmen. Maybe it wasn't planned. Roosevelt luck, you know.

Oratory
Every Monday is Fourth of July in the house, unless there is something very important afoot, and the members cut loose with their most patriotic speeches. Since some of these remarks are intended to be of lasting historic importance, let's listen.

Representative Wearin of Iowa: "Poverty, oppression and depression are the bedfellows of communism, and it allowed to sleep with the American farmer they will most certainly breed children of revolt."

Representative Dickstein of New York (upbraiding the house for rejecting his proposed investigation of nazi, communist, fascist and other activities he called "un-American"): "Mr. Fritz Kuhn (described by Dickstein as nazi leader in the U. S.) has one of his chief agents stationed in the state of New Jersey. This agent went to a certain railroad company and tried to bargain for a cheaper railroad fare to a new camp which these (nazis) had bought in the state of New Jersey. And where, do you think the camp is located? Within a mile of the largest ammunition factory in the United States."

Here and There Around World

WOMEN'S LOBBY WINS
Tirana, Albanian.—(P)—Albanian women are going without the traditional Mohammedan veils—and liking it.

Parliament passed the proposal to prohibit wearing of veils in public just a few days after its introduction and it went into effect March 25.

A few "emancipated" Albanian women wormed a lobby and argued that wearing the veil disqualified women for many activities in the modern world.

The conservative's rebuttal was that the veil to a woman apart as an object of respect, shielded her from a coarse world, and that since "grandmother wore it, it was good for her."

Several old men feared that abolition of the veil would "undermine the institution of matrimony and imperil family life."

CAR-DEATH PROTEST
London.—(P)—Parents in several parts of Britain are organizing demonstrations to protest the "slaughter" of school children by speeding automobiles.

Fathers and mothers of children who have to cross Westway—a dangerous arterial thoroughfare in London—have organized the following demonstration recently to draw attention to their demand for a 30-mile-and-hour speed limit.

A procession of 250 strong crossed and re-crossed the road in pouring rain, holding up the traffic on a busy Saturday afternoon. Motorists were confronted with banners bearing slogans "Make Westway Safe" or "It May Be Your Child Next Time."

PLUMP CO-EDS RATE HIGHEST
Lexington, Ky.—(P)—They like girls plump and blue-eyed at the University of Kentucky.

Dr. Jesse E. Adams of the College of Education recently canvassed the male students at Kentucky as to what findings presents the following composite of what the men at Kentucky want in a girl.

Height—5 feet 5 inches; weight—125 pounds; hair—brown; eyes—blue; complexion—fair.

In addition their "dream girl" must be musical and have some literary sense and—yes, this is right—"some public speaking ability."

Fine Technicolor Film Coming to Rio

'Wings of the Morning'
Also Introduces New Screen Personality

The flaming romance of a lovely fugitive fleeing from strife-torn Spain, "Wings of the Morning," playing at the Rio Theater on Tuesday and Wednesday, introduces a new and exciting screen personality in Annabella, starred with Henry Fonda in the film, which presents the world-famous tenor, John McCormack.

Also, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Vesper Chamberlain presents her annual dance revue, "Swing Time," 60 minutes of fast moving stage entertainment, with Tom Temple and his orchestra.

Brought to the screen in all the lifelike beauty of natural Technicolor, "Wings of the Morning" provides a thrilling mixture of drama, spectacle and surprise, including the most sensational Derby ever run. Breathtaking in its sweeping drama, the film acquires a new beauty and dimension through its natural, perfected Technicolor, so lifelike and beautiful that you'll think you've never seen color on the screen before.

Annabella, a brilliant new star as different and alluring as her unusual name, first appears in the prologue, as Marie, a gypsy princess. She marries the Earl of Clontarf, who dies on the hunting field five months later. Marie goes back to her gypsies to be told that her descendants will be cursed for her marriage for three generations.

Modern times bring us Annabella as Marie, the great-granddaughter, fleeing from Spain in the midst of revolution to a quieter Ireland, where she can have her horse, "Wings of the Morning," trained for the English Derby. Victory in that would provide her with a dowry to marry her Spanish fiancé.

'Good Old Soak' Stars

Lovable Wallace Beery

"Good Old Soak" starring Wallace Beery will be playing at the Appleton Theater starting next Friday for four days. The remembered story of Don Marquis depicts a typical situation in the average American small-town family during the era of prohibition. Beery, in what is without a doubt his most touching role to date, brings to life the Jackadist character, who is the quiet wit to keep up with the speakasies. When the family fortune is missing he, of course, is blamed. He proceeds to find the guilty party and knit the family ties with an efficiency that astonished his townsfolk. It is a satire of a fine order, outstanding in support of the whimsical humor that the author injected into his character, who is her down-to-earth comedy roles, Eric Linden, Judith Barrett, who sings and dances, Betty Furness, Ted Healy and Janet Beecher. In "Good Old Soak" the panorama of the American scene during the era of drought is pictured with all the whimsical humor that the author injected into his character, who is her down-to-earth comedy roles, Eric Linden, Judith Barrett, who sings and dances, Betty Furness, Ted Healy and Janet Beecher. "Let Them Live" has been booked as the second feature on this program. The story deals with the efforts of a young doctor, played by the popular John Howard, formerly in "Lost Horizon," who puts aside personal ambition to wage a battle against corrupt politics.

'Prince and the Pauper'

To Show at Rio Theater

History, romance and adventure are combined in the film version of Mark Twain's immortal "The Prince and the Pauper," which opened yesterday at the Rio Theater where it plays thru Monday.

Stage presentations of the classic have been hampered somewhat by the necessity of having the two title roles played by one actor. But the Mauch twins Billy and Bobby, twelve year old actors of no mean dramatic ability have solved that problem. Billy and Bobby are identical twins so that Bobby should play young Prince Edward and that Billy (whom you will remember as young "Anthony Adverse") should play Tom Canty the pauper boy who looked exactly like the prince.

Tin Pan Alley night clubs and radio stations figure prominently in the background of "Melody For Two," new musical production with James Melton, famed air-singer and Patricia Ellis, playing the principal roles, which is the added feature on this outstanding twin hit bill.

Daredevil Airmen Fight

Spies in Thrilling Film

Death rides the airlines in a trans-Atlantic plane! A weakened wing! A screaming dive! A crash in mid-ocean! The fury of a battle in the cockpit of a sinking plane—a battle of four men for stolen plans which mean a nation's victory or defeat, a woman's happiness or disgrace.

This is the terrific climax in "Crack-Up," the aerial gripper which comes to the Rio Theater on Monday and Tuesday, Bargain Days. It's the story of an ace pilot and his sweetheart, the innocent tools of an international spy ring—and it has more sheer excitement per foot of film than anything you have seen in a long time. The picture boasts a notable cast headed by Peter Lorre, Brian Donlevy, Helen Wood, Ralph Morgan and Thomas Beck.

County Officials to Convene in Milwaukee

The 1937 convention of the National County Officers' association will open Tuesday in Milwaukee and continue through Thursday. Supervisor George Schaefer, Greenville, and John E. Hantschel, county clerk, have been named delegates by the county executive committee. Hantschel is a director of the national organization.

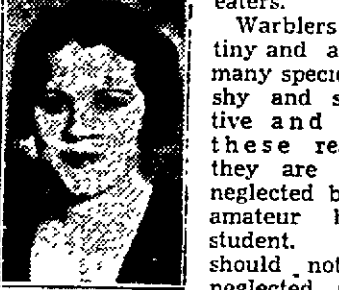

CAMERA INVADES MOUNTAIN RECESSES

Into the hidden mountain recesses the movie camera has gone to bring forth the dramatic story of America's forgotten womanhood in "MOUNTAIN JUSTICE" coming to the Appleton Theatre on a double feature program next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. George Brent, Josephine Hutchinson, Robert Barrat, Guy Kibbee, and Mona Barrie have the leading roles in this thundering drama of the mountains, the marriage of child brides, the law, witchcraft and mountain loves. The second feature, "YOU CAN'T BUY LUCK" is a romantic mystery race track story with Onslow Stevens, Helen Mack and Vinton Haworth.

Gay-Colored Warblers Aid In Fight on Insect Pests

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Because the middle of May marks the height of the warbler migration I am interrupting the series of articles begun a few weeks ago on helps for the beginner in this study of the various branches of nature study to write about these gayly-colored insect-eaters.

Clara Hussong

Warblers are tiny and active, many species are shy and secretive and for these reasons they are often neglected by the amateur bird student. They should not be neglected, however, for they are not only of value in ridding trees and shrubs of countless insect pests but they are so beautifully colored that no bird student should miss seeing them.

Oliver-green and yellow are two predominating colors of warblers but to them we can add at least a dozen other colors found in the plumage of the forty species which come to Wisconsin yearly, either as summer residents or as migrants on their way to Canada. Red, orange, black, white, blue, green, brown, ash-gray and chestnut-brown are among the hues they wear in varying shades. The male wears the gayest of colors while the female is clothed in subdued shades, not as striking but often as beautiful as those worn by her mate.

Not Noteworthy Singers In spite of their name, warblers, with a few exceptions are not noteworthy singers. Most of them indulge in wily trills, soft "Sweet-sweet" notes or monotonous insect-like songs. Among the exceptions can be named the water-thrush, the oven bird, the yellow warbler and the chestnut-sided warbler.

The water thrush, also called water wagtail because of its habit of flapping its tail, is one of the ground warblers and spends its time walking, not hopping, over fallen logs and dry leaves in shady woods. Its nest is built in a mossy bed on the ground or in a mossy cavity among upturned tree roots. Because of its olive-brown back and speckled breast it was at first supposed to be a thrush, hence its name. Like its western relative, the water thrush, it is fond of water and is often seen dashing in and out of the spray from a waterfall.

The song of the water thrush is outstanding, not only among warblers but in the whole bird world. As he sings the male bird seems to be trying to reproduce the sound of the waterfall in his loud, liquid tones.

Another ground warbler, the oven bird, has a distinctive song which you are sure to hear all through the summer in heavy woods. The song is best described as being a series of notes, beginning low and gaining in volume and speed to the final shattering last note. Burroughs, "who calls the oven bird, the 'daintiest waiker in the wood,'" says it has a slight song of a beautiful and static quality but I have never heard it.

If you plan to study warblers this spring you must begin now because in a few weeks only a few late migrants will be about. A few species are sociable and will build their nests in towns or cities but the majority of them prefer low moist woods where insect life is plentiful. During migration you can find warblers almost everywhere except in open fields. They migrate by night and during the day they rest in parks, orchards, woodlands and thickets. You will soon discover that the ground warblers and those that "work" the shrubs and low branches of trees can easily be seen, although they are never still for more than a few seconds. For those that hunt for insect larvae in tree tops you will need field glasses.

Stick To First One Your first warbler-hunting trip may not be very successful even though you find a spot which abounds in these birds. You may catch a glimpse of black and white and yellow and while you are trying to follow its movements a new bird comes into view. This one may be black, white and blue and you are tempted to forget the first bird and follow the second but in a short time a third one comes into view, still more gayly-colored.

Your best plan is to stick to the first one until you have noticed every identification mark. Look it up in your bird book if you have one

KAY WEBER

Featured as a singer with Bob Crosby and his orchestra who will appear at Waverly Beach Wednesday evening, May 19, is Kay Weber, above, who was discovered by Bob while appearing in the cast during the last year. Miss Weber, yet unknown on the radio, soon won favor with her personality and voice.

Bob Crosby and His Orchestra

To Appear Here

Bob Crosby, famous radio singer and brother of Bing Crosby of motion picture fame, will appear with his orchestra at Waverly Beach, Wednesday evening, May 19.

Kay Weber, favorite singer in well-known New York hotels, also will appear with the orchestra here. Like Bing, Bob Crosby sky-rocked to fame almost overnight. He came to the Arizona ballroom in Chicago as a singer with Anson Weeks and his orchestra about a year ago and before the engagement closed his popularity was recognized and he was asked to head his own band. Until recently he has been appearing at featured entertainment halls and hotels in the east.

'End of the Trail' To Open at Elite

Zane Grey's Famous American Novel Comes To Screen

Zane Grey's famous American novel, "Outlaws of Palouse," a star-spangled yarn of the immortal Roosevelt Rough Riders and the battle of San Juan Hill, is on the Elite theater screen today and Sunday under the title, "End of the Trail," with Jack Holt in the starring role.

Holt is again seen as the two-fisted, adventurous hero who courts danger and fights gallantly, a type of role that has made him a top-notch favorite with American audiences.

Surrounded by an excellent cast including Louise Henry, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, Douglass Dumbrille, George McKay and Gene Morgan, Holt appears as Dale Brittenham, a life-loving westerner who is among the first to answer the call to arms in the war of '98 against Spain.

His adventures on the battlefield, his rivalry with Williams for the love of Miss Henry, a Red Cross nurse, and his fight to make himself worthy of her love when the cannon are stilled and the boys come home, are dramatically interwoven in the stirring picturization of the bloody hundred days war during which the United States emerged as a world empire.

'Mountain Justice' Heads Double Bill

Picture Reveals Fanaticism And Intolerance of Some Mountain Folk

The fanaticism and intolerance of certain dwellers in remote hill-countries of the United States are revealed in "Mountain Justice," the first feature of the double attraction at the Appleton Theater on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. This thrilling picture, which is not alone a dramatic sociological document, but a tender romance, co-stars Josephine Hutchinson and George Brent, Miss Hutchinson portrays Ruth Harkins, a young mountaineer girl who has a taste of life and education in the "outside" and returns to her hamlet eager to bring health and education to at least the children of the backwoods. Her one sympathizer and aide in this is Guy Kibbee, a genial old physician. Her worst enemy and opponent is her own father, played by Robert Barrat, a bitter fanatic who hates everything taught by "furriners."

"Mountain Justice" is a severe indictment of the backwardness of certain parts of the civilized United States. Others in the cast, besides those named, include Mona Margaret Hamilton, Robert McWade and Fuzzy Knight.

"You Can't Buy Luck," a race-track drama climaxing in a murder mystery, is the second feature on this program. Onslow Stevens, stage and screen star, portrays a superstitious race-horse owner who believes that the more he helps others financially, the more luck will his horses have on the track. Helen Mack has the leading feminine role. The March of Time will also be seen with their two excellent features. Remember, that on Tuesday night "Hollywood" will be played at the Appleton Theater.

Young People Take Charge Of Services

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION will take over the morning service at First Baptist church tomorrow in observance of Young People's day. Melvin Trentlage, president of the union, will preside and the general theme of the service will be "Youth Building a New World."

Three talks will be given during the morning service, one by Melvin Trentlage entitled "Building a Personal Christian Philosophy of Life," another by Mary Delrow, "Steps to Creative Living," and the third by Doris Ryan, "The Use of Prayer."

An afternoon program will begin at 2:30, to which nearby Baptist Young People's Unions have been invited. The Rev. H. A. Mansfield of Allenville will give the principal talk, there will be games, music and readings, followed by a supper at 5 o'clock. A devotional service and installation of officers will take place at the evening.

The three afternoon circles of the Presbyterian Guild will have 1 o'clock luncheons and their monthly business meetings next Tuesday afternoon. The circle of which Mrs. Paul Cary, Jr. is captain will meet at the home of Mrs. H. A. Perry, 526 N. Meade street, with Mrs. Alex Ogilvie as assistant hostess. Mrs. Paul Cary's circle will have its luncheon and meeting at Mrs. J. Norman Fisher's home, 632 W. Prospect avenue, Mrs. B. T. Hoffmaster assisting; and Mrs. C. J. Hanlon's circle will meet at the home of Mrs. M. G. Fox, 413 S. Walnut street. Mrs. A. W. Bohn will be assistant hostess.

Plans for the Sunday school picnic and the vacation Bible school, which will open in June were discussed at a meeting of the Sunday school teachers of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church Friday night at the home of Mrs. H. A. Perry, 526 N. Meade street. Miss Louise Kippenhan spoke about plans for the vacation Bible school. Fifteen teachers were present. The next meeting will be June 11 at the home of the Misses Helen and Violet Filtz, 903 W. Elsie street.

Mrs. I. E. Hackett won the grand prize at auction bridge, Mrs. John R. Riedl at contract and Mrs. B. J. YOUNGER SET DANCES AT CIRCLE'S CHARITY PARTY

Charity Dance Is Given by Circle Of King's Daughters

Young people ranging from junior high school to college age and coming from Oshkosh as well as Neenah, Menasha and Appleton, gathered at the charity dance given by the Little Women's circle of King's Daughters Friday night at Elk hall. Many of the crowd came in couples, while others preferred to "stag" and chose their dance partners after arriving.

John Boon, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Boon, 1053 E. Nevada street, entertained a party of 15 members of the ninth grade at Roosevelt Junior High school at dinner at his home before the dance.

The dance was under the direction of the following committees: Tickets, the Misses Elizabeth Collins, Virginia Grist and Mary Ellen Schuetter; door, the Misses Fern Bauer and Catherine Price; publicity, the Misses Helen Lewis, Betty Brown, Elizabeth Wood and Catherine Pride.

May Queen To Be Named At College

IN a ceremony beginning at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the terrace of Russell Sage hall a Lawrence college coed, her identity still a secret, will be crowned May Queen by Miss Margaret Badger, Chicago, last year's queen. The traditionally beautiful ceremony will open with a song by the Lawrence College A Cappella choir under the direction of Dr. Carl J. Waterman.

When the queen, who was chosen by an all-college vote, has been presented, the honor girls, including those elected to Mortar board, and Phi Beta Kappa, as well as those who have been given the W.A.A. trophy and named the Best Loved, will be introduced to her, and their honors will be read.

After the ceremony a tea will be given at Russell Sage hall in honor of Miss Margaretie Woodworth, dean of women at the college, and the board of the Lawrence Women's association.

In case of rain the crowning of the May Queen will take place in Lawrence Memorial chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Pusey and Mr. and Mrs. Alden McGrew will be chaperons at the Delta Gamma formal dinner-dance at 7 o'clock to-night at Riverview Country club, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Barrows have been invited as guests.

Miss Ruthellen Polton, Evanston, is general chairman of the affair. Miss Elizabeth Holt of Oak Park is in charge of flower arrangements and Miss Alice Hansen, Eau Claire, is program chairman. A Milwaukee orchestra will play for dancing.

Parties

Members of a sewing club had their last meeting of the season in the form of a dinner party Friday night at the Conway hotel. In the group were Misses Emelda Lenke, Eileen Wendler, Alva Carter, Meredith Jensen, Irma Dettmann, Viola Deichen, Ethel Luedtke and Lucille Erdman. Cards were played after the dinner, with prizes going to Miss Luedtke, high, and Miss Dettmann, low. Miss Carter won the traveling prize.

Mrs. J. F. Loefer, 1201 W. Winnebago street, was surprised last night at her home in honor of her sixtieth birthday anniversary. The evening was spent playing schafkopf, and prizes went to William Riese, Edward Junke, Mrs. William Riese and Mrs. John Wagner. Ervin Bohnsack won the traveling prize.

Entertainment is under the direction of the Misses Helen Doerfler and Beatrice Otto. Miss Eileen Schomisch is general chairman.

Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Delta Pi Win in Song-Fest

Members of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority and the Delta Tau Delta fraternity were the winners of the first Lawrence college inter-fraternity singing contest held last night at the Alexander gymnasium. Second place was won by the Delta Gamma sorority and the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. The contest was held on the lawn of the Alexander gymnasium.

Two trophies, donated by the Pettibone-Peabody department store and Fischer's jewelry store, were presented to the winners. The trophies will rotate until any one fraternity or sorority has won the sing three times. It will then remain in permanent possession of that group.

The singing competition, one of the features of the Lawrence college Guest day, is to be made an annual event.

Twelve fraternities and sororities competed in the sing. The other sororities which sang were Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Chi Omega, Kappa Delta, and Zeta Tau Alpha. The other fraternities which were entered were Phi Delta Theta, Delta Sigma Tau, Phi Kappa Tau, and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

22 Faculty Members at Party for Miss Shannon

Mr. Mossholder and his bride will go to North Dakota on their wedding trip to visit the latter's parents for three or four weeks. When they return they will make their home on route 2, Appleton.

Authorize Easement To Canal Company

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—With no opposition the house committee on public buildings and grounds has reported a bill authorizing the federal government to relinquish an easement granted by the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal Co. in connection with the new post office at Kaukauna.

The measure was introduced by Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton, who appeared to explain its purpose to the committee.

He explained that the government obtained an easement by which the company allowed the government to build a sewer across company land. Plans were then changed, calling for a shorter sewer but on the same land.

The second easement has been obtained but legislation is necessary to permit the government to relinquish an easement.

Spring Brides-to-be are Being Feted at Showers

SPRING brides-to-be are holding the center of the social stage these days as their friends fete them at showers and pre-nuptial luncheons and dinners. The last week has seen an unusually large number of parties for young women who have chosen May or June for their weddings.
Mrs. D. W. Bergstrom, Jr., 157 N. Park avenue, Neenah, was hostess at a buffet luncheon and kitchen shower at her home this noon in honor of Miss Dorothy Brown, whose marriage to Stanley Severson will take place the latter part of this month. Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kimberly will entertain at their home on E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, for Miss Brown and Mr. Severson, and several more luncheons, dinners and parties are planned for the popular young couple next week.
Miss Gladys Kerrigan of Kaukauna entertained at a coin shower at Little Chicago Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Josephine Muelmans of Wrightstown who will be married to Theodore Van Grinsven of Little Chute this month. Fifty guests were present and dancing provided amusement.

Miss Dorothy Hingiss, Chilton, whose marriage to Harold Schaff will take place May 20, was guest of honor at a dinner given by Miss Alice Mortimer at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mortimer, Chilton, Monday evening. The guests were entertained at luncheon, prizes going to the Misses Anna Marie Schaff, Alice Bennin and Dorothy Hingiss. Those present were the Misses Alice Schneider, Alice Baumann, Henri Brocker, Alice Hultmann, Dorothy and Mildred Hingiss, Alice and Valeria Bennin, Myra Stecker, Margaret Schmidkofer, Katherine Mortimer, Adeline Karls and Mrs. Elmer Daun.

On Wednesday evening 45 relatives and friends of Miss Hingiss and Mr. Schaff entertained them at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schaff. The guests were entertained at cards, prizes being awarded to Mrs. George Winkler, Mrs. Walter Mortimer, Mrs. Henry Westphal, Henry Westphal and Edward Sohrweide.

Miss Edna Kollwitz, 1314 N. Superior street, who will be married June 15 to Mrs. Eastman, Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bastian, Appleton, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower last night given by Mrs. Stanley Smarzynski and Mrs. Willard Ferron at the home of the latter, 1314 N. Superior street. Court whist was played and prizes won by the Misses Marian Ahlschweide and Florence Finger. Twenty guests were present.

Film Stars Passing Pickets are Called "Strike-Breakers"

Hollywood — (P) — Branding as "strike-breaker" every star who passes through picket line leaders of nearly 6,000 striking film craftsmen demanded peace today on their own terms after rejecting proposals of producers.
Most of the leading players of Hollywood last night walked through lines of about 100 pickets to attend the premier of a film at Carthay Center.
Pickets were kept from the entrance by police, who ordered them to "keep moving." The picket lines, however, formed so that stars were forced to cross them to get into the theater.

Among those who attended the premiere were Spencer Tracy, Freddie Bartholomew, Harpo Marx, Miriam Hopkins, Robert Taylor, Barbara Stanwyck, Mary Pickford, Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Louis B. Mayer, the producer.
Robert Montgomery, president of the Screen Actors' Guild, which recently settled its differences with producers offered no comment on the "strike-breaker" statement. It came from 25 members of the Federation of Motion Picture Crafts' executive committee.

Dr. Tabern to Talk at Meeting of Chemists

100 Pickets Out in Milwaukee Strike

Increased Pay and Closed Shop Sought by Bookbinders' Union

Milwaukee — (P) — One hundred pickets today marched before the gates of the novelty advertising concern of George Seelman and Sons where 200 employees last night called a strike.
Edward R. Ziegert, business agent of the bookbinders' union, said the strike was voted because the company refused to sign an agreement calling for increased pay and a closed shop. George Seelman, Jr., vice president of the company, said today the closed shop was the only provision to which the concern objected.

A contract calling for union recognition, sole bargaining rights, vacation with pay, and a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase was announced as being effected between the officials of the Stearns Magnetic Manufacturing company and the Amalgamated Association of Steel, Iron, and Tin Workers' union, a C. O. group.

The Automobile Retail Salesman's association, which met last night, 600 strong, deferred action on striking when it was reported by Nathan Kahn, chairman of the group, that a number of dealers were signing agreements.

A two-day sit-down strike of 134 employees of the Milwaukee Lace Paper company ended yesterday with the signing of a one year contract.

Novel of American Pioneers Wins Famous French Prize

By Jean Wiley Thickens

THE LAURELS ARE CUT DOWN.

By Archie Binns.
"The Laurels Are Cut Down" by Archie Binns is a worthy successor to "Lightship" which appeared in 1934 and won for its author the Prix Femina American, as the novel of the year, most deserving of translation into the French language.
Jean Wiley Thickens comes from a seafaring family; his mother was born on board the S. S. Atlantic while her father was in command. His grandfather was a cotton blockade runner during the Civil War; while his second cousin Jack Binns was radio operator aboard the S. S. Republic at the time of its tragic collision off Nantucket Lightship. All through "The Laurels Are Cut Down" one senses the author's inherent love of the sea, with its attendant dangers the thrills, the epic tale of the two Tucker brothers' adventures on a voyage to Alaska. In their own tiny home-made sloop, compares favorably with some of Joseph Conrad's most thrilling sea sagas.

Mr. Binns' latest novel is a story of American pioneers, as was "Buckskin Breaches," reviewed in this paper last week. "The Laurels Are Cut Down" resumes the record where "Buckskin Breaches" laid it down. Shortly before the Civil War the first white man settled in the redwood forests on the shores of Puget Sound, and built his log cabin, traded with the friendly Swish Indians, and founded the vast lumber industry which has made the Northwest famous from coast to coast.

Archie Binns' novel is really a series of historical episodes, beginning with the idyllic love story of General Pickett, that courageous Confederate gentleman whose brilliant strategy almost turned the tide of victory at the Battle of Gettysburg. The then Captain Pickett had recently married his lovely little Indian sweetheart "Morning Mist" and he married her "Boston." which was the Swish Indian term for "honored" and "fairly." The record of that brief love story is one of the most exquisite in all his work. Their son Jimmy Pickett died in early manhood, of the same illness that had carried off his dainty mother, just as he was beginning to make a name for himself as an artist and a successful surgeon.

The second episode in Br. Binns' book is the story of Mrs. Harper, that courageous New England wife who came out to the western wilderness with her husband, who had intended engaging in the lumber business and was killed by the first red-wood tree which he felled. After his tragic death she remained to minister to the lonely, isolated settlers, as she had some medical training. Her services to these hardy pioneers is another record of fortitude and devotion worthy to be included in this tale of unsung heroes.

However the main theme of "The Laurels Are Cut Down" is the David and Jonathan devotion between George and Alfred Tucker, which not even the mutual love for a fine girl could shatter. When George accidentally learned that his younger brother Alfred had won Clarice Jackson's love, he hastened to enlist for the World War, slipping away in the dead of night to join a regiment where he thought his brother could not find him; feeling that perhaps his death on the field of battle would square things and make it easier for Alfred's conscience. When Alfred discovered the regiment of which his brother was a member, he left Clarice and joined George, holding that love of brother for brother is a higher impulse than even his deep passion for the young girl whom he had secretly adored since his boyhood.

That part of Mr. Binns' novel which is devoted to a description of war, as carried on by the American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia, is the finest example of peace propaganda which one could discover in many a day's search. The brutality, the stupidity, and the brutal cruelty with which the Russians conducted the war on that particular front beyond description. Alfred loses his beloved brother in a brawl begun by a drunken Russian officer, who butchered the hapless American while our so-called "Allies" the Japanese, looked calmly on and made no move to prevent the murder.

After almost three years of service with the A. E. F. Alfred is at last sent home, without his brother, and on arrival he learns that Clarice has begun to doubt his love and has recently married a young Seattle infantry officer, and that even his own mother suspects him of being a "Bolshevik." For Alfred life holds no more the taint of hope and adventure that was his, with his brother by his side. Everything seems flat, and unprofitable: "We shall go no more to the woods; the laurels are cut down."

Probably not everyone will enjoy this book, but everyone should read it, even tho it leaves a distinctly bitter taste in the reader's mouth. Futility is the keynote; but the integrity of the protagonist Alfred Tucker, and in fact of all its main characters, raises it to epic heights.

Squeeze Play Difficult One to Execute in Game

RECOGNITION AND EXECUTION OF A SQUEEZE
(Copyright, 1937, Ely Culbertson)
The difficulty of squeeze plays is two fold. First, there is the need for recognizing that a squeeze position may exist and, second, having made this analysis, there remains the difficult problem of execution.

A hand from a recent team of four match in England is interesting in this respect. The declarer was shrewd enough to diagnose the situation as one calling for a squeeze, but his actual execution was faulty.

North, dealer.

East-West vulnerable.

♦ A 3 7 4
♣ 6 5 1 2

WEST

SOUTH

♣ J 8

In both rooms North and South arrived at a contract of four spades. In one room the diamond ten was opened and declarer had no trouble fulfilling his contract. He merely laid down the ace and king of hearts and ruffed a losing heart with one of dummy's low spades, finally conceding only two clubs and a diamond.

In the other room West hit on an opening, namely, the club ten, that made things much more difficult for declarer. Each put up the ace and returned the queen. West overlooked and played the ten, and on this East discarded a low heart. Declarer ruffed and logically deciding that East would not have discarded a heart if he had held four (since a discard would do no good and might give up a stopper in the suit) determined to play for a squeeze on West between hearts and clubs rather than attempt to ruff a third round of hearts with a low spade in dummy.

This was, as I have said, a sound decision. Declarer had truly appreciated the situation as ripe for a squeeze. But he went about it badly. He drew three rounds of trumps, ending in his own hand, and then, to "thin out" all hands for the eventual squeeze, led a diamond and ducked in dummy. East won with the eight and, if he had been so indiscreet as to return the diamond king, the squeeze would have come off. But East saw the danger of this and returned the ten of hearts, whereupon West could no longer be squeezed.

Now let us follow the proper execution of the squeeze. On ruffing the third club, declarer should immediately duck a diamond. A heart return should be won with dummy's ace and three rounds of spades taken. The situation then would be:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ A 7
♦ A 7

WEST
♠ None
♥ J 6 5
♦ 10

EAST
♠ None
♥ 9
♦ K Q 8 2
♣ None

SOUTH
♠ K Q 7
♣ None

On the lead of the seven of trump West could let go the diamond ten, but on the next play to the diamond ace would have to let go either a heart, which would solidify declarer's suit or the good seven of clubs.

The point here was that declarer had to duck a diamond to "thin out" the hand or, as experts put it, "to rectify the count" while retaining the necessary entries in both hands.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Question: Partner opened the bidding with one no trump. Is the following strong enough to raise to two no trump:

♠ K 10 6 5 ♥ Q 9 8 7 ♦ 9 7 4 ♣ 8 6 5

Answer: Yes.

EYE-APPEAL IN DAINY PANEL FROCK

BY ANNE ADAMS
There's feminine appeal a-plenty in this winsome Summer-day frock! And imagine how appropriate it will be for all warm-weather occasions—informal visiting, entertaining at home, shopping, or just "taking it easy" on the porch. You just can't be without it—for you'll wear it constantly. There's special smartness to a row of sparkling little buttons that call attention to the chic of the trim yoke. And just see the diverting flared sleeves that may or may not wear a narrow cuff! Pattern 4416 is surprisingly easy to make, too, for it's composed of the simplest of pattern pieces. Lovely to behold in soft printed voile, dainty chiffon, bright-colored eyelet batiste, figured dimity, or colorful synthetic.

Pattern 4416 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

Every now and then, some reader writes to ask me about my "life story" or about my boyhood. My life seems too long to take up in the "Corner," but I am going to answer this special question from a high school boy, who asks:

"What were your interests when you were about 16 years old?"

I know the answer to that question very well, for I was having more adventure than I had ever had before. I was editing a magazine which I had started myself, and which I called "The Typical Boy."

I was also going to high school, taking history, physics, English and German, and I was a member of a debating society.

I liked the debating very well, and enjoyed telling why I was for or against the income tax or the literacy test for immigrants. I made it a point not to take a side in a debate which I did not believe in. Slow changes in my viewpoint took place, but I kept the principle of saying only what I believed to be true when I was debating, in college as well as in high school.

I also liked my high school studies, but what I liked most was my magazine. It was a thing which members of my family and some of my friends had said "could not be done," and I was overjoyed to think that it could be done.

The idea for a magazine came to me just about at the time of my first birthday. At first I planned to build a printing press of my own, and actually started to make one.

but after a time I decided it wouldn't turn out good printing. My next step was to ask my grandmother to buy me a printing press "right away" instead of buying me a gold watch at the time of my graduation from high school. At last, after some coaxing, she agreed, and I sent money-order for $25 to a company which made printing-presses.

I was a very happy youth when I sent that money-order away, and I was very much excited when the press at last arrived. Before long I had printed letterheads for myself, with these words across the top, "The Typical Boy Publishing Company."

I was the entire company, and my bedroom was my only "office," but that did not seem strange or amusing to me. My mind was filled with thoughts of the kind of magazine I would publish.

At school and in the evenings I spent many hours figuring out the first issue. I decided there would be editorials, adventure stories, special articles and departments. There would be about 20 printed pages. I would get subscriptions and advertisements.

At some later time I may tell more about "The Typical Boy."

Don't Frighten Child Into Telling of Lies

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Did you make those marks on the wall, Jackie?"

"No."

"Don't tell me a lie like that. Of course you did. You know you did. What do you want to be like that for?"

"I didn't do it."

"You tell me the truth right now or I'll spank you well. Hurry up. Out with it. You did it. Say so."

"No. I wasn't me."

"You infernal little liar. I'll teach you not to tell me lies."

Who is to teach father what he does not know? Such behavior on his part betrays his vast ignorance of a child's mind and behavior. He knew that the child had marked the wall. Then why did he ask him in threat-ful tones, if he had done it? He opened the door for a lie, suggested and fostered by him. Then he spanked the child for it and taught him that he could expect threats, unsympathetic attitudes and punishment from him whenever he made a mistake.

A child of five has no concept of Truth for Truth's sake. That is a concept of a matured mind and spirit. It comes late to most of us. There are some of us to whom it never comes. It is too much to expect of a little child. Truth-telling must be made beautiful, rewarding, before he can be expected to practice it much, especially in the face of fear. A frightened child has lost his grip on his mind and must fall back on his instinct for self-preservation. The lie then is inevitable. The sure child, the one secure in his faith in his people, is much more able to see and tell the truth. Give him that chance at last.

The defensive lie is only one variety of childish lying. If lying is what you call it. Children under six years of age have little of the clear-mindedness of the later years. Their thinking is vague. They merge dreams with actuality in their thinking, not willfully, but naturally. There are occasions when they cannot separate the actual happening from the stream of imaginative thinking that carried it through consciousness. To get the matter straight one often has to say, "No. This is what happened," and tell the story in short, clear sentences. To frighten a child who shows this state of confusion is to kill even his desire to find the truth.

Go gently with this trait of childhood. Listen. Try to find what moved the child to the wrong expression. Set the stage for truth by gentleness, by faith in the child's fundamental honesty, by patient listening and more patient correction. Don't shout; don't threaten; don't foam at the mouth about it. Wait.

Waiting for a time to elapse after a child has told the wrong story helps. It gives his mind a chance to clear things up. If he is not frightened he will very likely respond to a second question or statement from you, suggesting the truth. Much depends upon the parental attitude here as in many other phases of child training.

Brushing, Massage Help Hair

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Hair Affected After Illness

Mrs. W. G. G. Lost of blood, mental anxiety, nervous shock may all be contributory causes to the falling, dry condition of your hair. It is not uncommon for hair to be badly affected after severe illness, particularly when accompanied by a high temperature. Trimming the hair may help somewhat. Daily brushing of the hair to stimulate healthy circulation is highly recommended. Scalp massage a few times a week should help still further. The use of a corrective tonic is indicated. And a corrective weekly or even twice-weekly shampoo for a few weeks, then once a week. For these an oil shampoo is indicated. My bulletins on "Hair Care" are yours for the asking. Please inclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Posture Important for Tall Girl

Aunt Jane: You are just about one hundred per cent right that posture is even more important for the tall girl than for the short person. Slumping makes one look awkward, ungainly, ungraceful and is too obvious an admission of a desire to conceal one's height. Good carriage, on the other hand, makes the tall girl look regal—queensly. Why, young niece should want to look shorter when the standards of today call for an average height of at least five feet five. I don't know. Leave this where she can see it and maybe she'll pull up, straighten up, hold her head high. You may also have her "Posture Rules" if you wish them. Please write for them and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Brow Grooming

Annette: Yes, it will hurt, particularly at first, but not very much, really. And if your eyebrows are as heavy and shaggy as you say I think it's worth a little effort to groom them once a week. My advice would be to have your eyebrows arched first in a reputable beauty salon, then it will be easy enough for you to watch the stray, wild ones grow in and pluck them. A minute a day is all you need spend to keep the brows absolutely clean. I am quite sure that my bulletin "Beauty's Brows and Lashes" would be of interest to you. If you wish it please refer to it by name and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

OFFICE ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Post: I am told that somewhere in your writings you indicated that a woman secretary, coming into the office at the beginning of the day, should not speak to her employer unless he speaks first, nods or gives her some other recognition. In other words, the rule is—according to your advice—simply reversed from that which governs similar conventions on the street, will you explain why?

Answer: It is not that the rule is reversed, but that the professional attitude of a secretary toward her employer is quite different from her attitude toward her personal acquaintances. Instead of concerning herself with the thought of his politeness to her, a really efficient secretary is concerned with nothing but her efficient usefulness to him. If he looks at her she naturally says "Good morning." As a matter of fact, ordinarily they say good morning to each other simultaneously, but if he does not look up when she enters, or if he does not greet her when he comes in, she does not risk interrupting his thought except to tell him something of urgent importance.

Dear Mrs. Post: Not long ago our secretarial staff was increased by one. This girl is very personable and we all like her but of course know her very slightly. Today each one of us received an invitation from some one none of us knows, asking us to come to a shower for her. Evidently she is soon to be married. We all think that this invitation is an imposition since we can not go without taking presents. Do you think it would be ungraciously cruel for us to decline. I mean, could this girl possibly think she was being especially nice in having given our names to this friend of hers? Otherwise she would not have known about us.

Answer: She has really put every one in the office in a most uncomfortable position. As you say, wholehearted declining of the invitation would not be very kind—especially as she has most probably failed to realize that since invitations to showers are literally so many requests for presents, they should not have been sent to any but intimate friends. If she did realize this obligation, then she is completely in the wrong—and even if she didn't, can one go without taking presents? It is not for declining. Even so, they need not be rude; they can thank her for the invitation and each give his or her own excuse.

Morbid Dwelling on Loss Of Baby Adds to Tragedy

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married more than eight years to a wonderful man, the kindest person I have ever known. His salary is only $20 a week, so we have no easy time making ends meet. Also, we seem hopelessly in debt for a home that we are trying to pay for, but that is not my trouble. It is losing my baby. I have always been crazy for a child, and when I knew that one was coming I was the happiest person in the world. But she only lived four hours. A misplaced heart and a lung that failed to grow. Losing her has made me so wild with grief that I have nearly lost my mind. If it were not that I fear that I would never see my precious baby again I'd kill myself. I want my baby so badly that I feel that I could go dig her up and breathe life into her. Every day seems so long. I think of nothing but my baby and how sweet she would be. How I shall make out, God only knows.

A HEART-BROKEN MOTHER.

Answer: You have my sympathy and you will have that of every woman who reads your pathetic letter. It is a terrible thing for a woman to go down into the valley of the shadow of death for a child and then come back with empty arms, but you are making a bad matter worse by your morbid dwelling on your loss and your self-pity.

In a world that is full of sorrow there is not one of us but who must tread the same dark path but you are walking. Millions of mothers, like you, have wept over little coffins and felt that their hearts were buried in a tiny grave. Millions of lives have agonized over losing the husband that once life all that was worth living to them. Millions of us have seen our dear old fathers and mothers slip away from us, and millions of brothers and sisters have mourned those to whom their souls clung as David's did to Jonathan's.

Not one of us can escape the bitter tragedy of parting from some one we love, and the earth would be so filled with grief and with the lamentations of the bereaved that it would be an intolerable place if we all met our misfortune with the lack of fortitude that you show. For your loss is not unique. It is not even the greatest one that a woman has ever been called upon to suffer.

When I say this to you, don't think I am lacking in sympathy. I am not. But what you need now is not pity, but a brace. You need some one to tell you, as I am doing, that you are being a coward in giving up to your grief and that for the sake of the good husband you have that you must make an effort to get yourself together and dry your tears. Otherwise you may lose him as well as the baby, because no man wants to come home to a wife who is sodden with misery.

Try to bring some practical sense to bear upon your problems. Get a book from the library called "If I Had Four Apples," and let it show you how foolish it is for people to enslave themselves to the idea of buying a house when they cannot afford it. And have another baby as soon as you can. If you could afford the one you have lost, you can certainly afford another, and baby hands will heal the wound in your heart.

Dear Miss Dix—My husband and I have a very dear friend in another state who wants to take our boy of 14 and educate him and give him a father's care in every way possible. My husband's work takes him away from home nearly all the time, and our son is at an age when he needs a man's guidance. This friend has always loved boys and has no children. He is devoted to our son. He is highly educated and a man of fine character. But this is our problem: His wife is violently opposed to his taking our boy. Says it will break into the privacy of her home. That she wants her husband all to herself and wants him to love no one but her. The man says that he sees all his life's ambition in the future of our child and wants to keep him in spite of his wife's objections, and that he will leave her unless she consents to his taking the boy. But I do not want to be the means of coming between a man and his wife.

PUZZLED WIFE.

Answer: If the wife objects to her husband taking the child, that settles the question so far as you are concerned. Nothing that the man could pro-does say that a boy or girl who can speak a piece convincingly has a head-start as a potential actor.

The records would seem to bear her out, too. Walter Brennan won the Swampscott (Mass.) high school speaking contest in 1914 and still treasures the prize, a set of books. Victor Jory and Joel McCrea were on college debating teams at the University of California and Pomona college respectively. Fay Wray won a speaking contest in her native Canada, and Rochelle Hudson copped a cup at Van Nuys High.

But it doesn't necessarily work. I made a high school oration once myself and what did it get me? . . .

Irving Cummings, the director, used to be a leading man and he's still an actor. "Vogues Of 1938" marks his debut as an actor behind a color camera, however. He acts out the parts for his players just as he was when working in black-and-white film.

And that's how he is shooting the picture, too, with no taboos because of the color medium. Cummings made a hit film of "The White Parade," a story about nurses' training. He's trying now to show the lives and tribulations of fashion models in the same manner—"with a laugh in every scene—I hope!"

Ted Peckman, of that gentlemanly escort service, is the most open publicity-seeker to hit town in months. . . . After Paramount gave up its escort picture idea, Ted got himself a press agent but I doubt if it did any good. . . .

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. Farrington

The Scabrolo lily (Vallota) is a curious plant. There is only one species, and it apparently never throws sports or hybridizes with other flowers of the same color. It is a particularly good plant to grow on the porch. It requires but little attention, the bulbs not being divided oftener than once in three or four years. The tops of the bulbs should be set level with the surface of the soil. A start may be made with one bulb in a three-inch pot. The plant is readily wintered in any light room if given a little water occasionally. Unfortunately, the bulbs are now hard to obtain, although formerly they were very common.

Chilton Man Asks for Motor Carrier Permit

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Applications for license to serve as a contract motor carrier by L. E. Buelow, Chilton, will be heard by the state public service commission at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, May 19, at the Brown county courthouse in Green Bay, the commission has announced. Buelow seeks a license to haul milk from the towns of Chilton and Rantoul, Calumet county, to the G. C. Steekes, Cheese factory in the town of Chilton, and farm products from those towns to markets with a radius of 35 miles and supplies back to the towns.

At the same time the commission will hold a hearing on an application to amend the motor carrier license of Kalka brothers, route 2, Denmark, to carry milk and cream from the Hillsdale Farmers cooperative cheese factory, town of Glenmore, and the Wrightstown Milk Producers cooperative, Wrightstown, as directed.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Paul Muni is extremely beard-conscious. Pasteur had to wear one. So now does Zola. But Muni's beard in "The Woman I Love" was his own idea.

He said it would emphasize the difference in ages between himself and Louis Hayward, the other corner of the triangle, and also would make his character appropriately less attractive to Miriam Hopkins.

This apparently was carrying realism and art too far for the exploitation department. The ads on "The Woman I Love" show Muni clean-shaven. Beards still are regarded as unromantic. . . .

Miss Hopkins, mentioned more than any other actress for the Scarlett-O'Hara role, thinks it is all very lovely except that—

"I wish someone would get around to asking me to play it," she laughs. "That's what I'm waiting for."

When I told her she was my choice, because I liked her "Becky Sharp," she said: "You and my mother, bless you both."

Kidding aside, she isn't counting on getting the role, believes it really will go to an unknown actress. Reminded that she'd probably have the vote of the Solid South, she laughed appreciatively:

"But there have been years in which the Solid South couldn't carry the election. Maybe this will be one of them. . . ."

With open season on commencement oratory around the corner, it's nice of Marjorie Main to come out with this encouraging thought: the high school orator of today may be the movie star of tomorrow.

Miss Main, here from the Broadway stage to play in "Stella Dallas" and "Dead End" for Goldwyn, is from Acton, Ind., and she won the state oratorical championship for high schools at the age of 15. She isn't saying that her victory insured her stage success, but she

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: When Eve Manners-field learns that her beloved Denny Carter is to wed wealthy Miss, she is shattered. Resuming her sun-baking business, she finds contentment in her old house and orchard in Connecticut. Old Uncle Henry, who helps her run the place, and serious little Judge Featherstone, whose parents have left him with Eve, adore her. She forgets Denny. But until George Cleveland, her steady, dependable neighbor, leaves abruptly, does Eve realize she has been missing George who has been a friend and helper to her through the summer.

Chapter 37
IT'S LOVE
EVE did miss George--intensely, achingly. She might not be in love with him as she had been with Denny. No, not as she had been with Denny--that was what had betrayed her. She missed George as if some part of herself was gone. A lack as enormous and unbearable as starvation, as deprivation of breath and light. She laughed aloud, with the incredible delight of it. She loved George more than that. She was a part of him, of everything he was, and said and did, as he was of her. That was why the Kay girl had thought they were married. In a thousand ways they were married, as much as they ever could be. In this summer they had spent together, welded by their pleasures and duties, by their mutual interest and care for the child and the old man, they had grown as close as most people do in five married years. And they would go on all their lives as close as this, wonderfully closer than this; their children, their work and play, building a oneness more and more effortless and complete.

She leaned there, dazzled and breathless against the laden boughs, understanding. This was why she had so swiftly forgotten Denny! Why--she had not really loved Denny, she saw now. The hurt of his desertion, wounded pride, had been a great part of her grief. If love was needing a man as you needed sun and air and food and water and sleep, she had never loved Denny; it had been thrill, excitement, kisses and laughter. There would be all these with George--but how much more!

"How much more," she said aloud, sobered and reverent, pacing down the orchard trail. And then she smiled a little, planning how she would tell him when he came back. And what a stupid idiot she had been! Why, no wonder he had been angry with her. He had asked her again to marry him in those few hesitating words last night by the hissing fireplace. And she must have seemed to ignore, to evade. Well, she'd make it up to him! She had never once said to him, or to anyone, anything about Denny. But she thought they must know. Two months had gone by now without her seeing Denny or hearing from him; Uncle Henry had a countryman's watchfulness about small happenings, and she knew talked most things over with George. They discussed her welfare affectionately. She knew that from Judge Besdet, with George's mother at a Southampton hotel, and Mitzzi Power in a house there, it wasn't likely he didn't know. None of which mattered at all.

She planned the words in which she would tell George--a dozen ways, as lovers will, as she walked singing down the path. She went on with her work blithely. She swam and played tennis with the Gardiners and their friends, using George's place, as they always did, whether he was there or not. She walked with burning cheeks and dreaming eyes and quick laughter, waiting till George came home. She was chattering for George, as she had so often been before, but now more proudly. The Gardiners wanted to know if some of the current group of weekend guests could dress in George's house instead of coming and going in bathing suits, as most of them did. Eve went in to tell Mattie, asking the normal permission she was accustomed to give. "Mr. George is coming back Monday instead of Tuesday," Mattie informed her as Eve stood in the doorway of the long parlor. "He's bringin' some people with him, but the connection was bad, and I couldn't make out was it a party or just one luncheon. What would you do about ordering if you was me?" Eve was used to solving Mattie's problems for her. "Get two chickens," she said promptly. "If you roast them, you can save one cold for lunches and picnics and so on if there isn't a party, and it will be enough if there abruptly, does Eve realize she has been missing George who has been a friend and helper to her through the summer."

Coast Guard Charts

Ocean Fishing Sites

Washington--A new method to show ocean fishermen exactly where to drop their hooks or nets is being developed by the U. S. Coast Guard. Oceanographic studies have indicated each species of sea life has its own habitat dependent on certain conditions. Finding the species wanted is merely a problem of finding the right conditions, say Coast Guard officials. Coast Guard vessels on the Atlantic patrol and in Bering Sea already have made observations and calculations of temperature, currents, and the food of various sea animals.

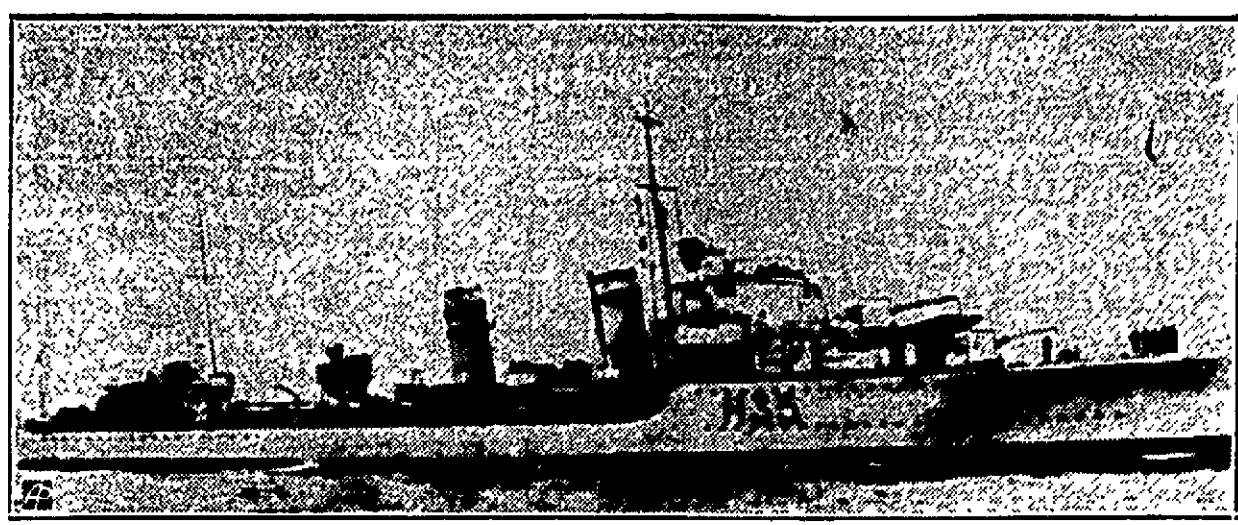

Twin Cities are Ready to Greet Crowds for Rally

Streets are Decorated in Honor of Holy Name Event

Menasha—With festive decorations and welcome signs lining the principal streets, Menasha and Neenah are all set to welcome Holy Name units from 104 churches for the 1937 biennial rally of the Green Bay Diocese Union of Holy Name societies here Sunday.

Featuring the rally will be a mammoth parade to start promptly at 2:30. In addition to representatives of Holy Name societies, there will be 33 bands, Boy Scout troops and rifle and drum corps to march in the parade which will assemble along Racine street in Menasha.

If the weather is fair, a conservative estimate places the number of visitors at between 10,000 and 15,000 persons. Ample parking space for visitor's cars will be available in

Class of Twelve To be Confirmed At Trinity Church

Pentecost Sunday Will be Observed by Congregations

Menasha—Twelve young people will be confirmed at the Sunday morning service at 10 o'clock in Trinity Lutheran church by the Rev. Paul G. Bergmann, pastor. Pentecost Sunday will be observed at the service as the Rev. Mr. Bergmann preaches on the topic, "Let Ye Forgive." The choir will sing the anthem, "Holy Ghost, O Spirit Gracious." The professional hymn will be "Saviour, I Follow On." The young people who are to be confirmed include John Baldauf, Arlene Blank, Veri Franz, Elmer Landkron, Carol Page, Robert Mantke, David Schanke, Mildred Mason, Dorothy Mason, Lucella Wendt, Betty Goethe, and Agnes Kutz.

The bible study class will meet at 7:30 Wednesday evening. A Sunday School teachers meeting will be held at 7:30 Monday.

The Rev. Mr. Bergmann will be attending the Wisconsin-Missouri Synod in St. Peter's Lutheran church, Fond du Lac Tuesday and Wednesday.

Sermon Subject
"What May a Man Expect from Religion?" is the question which the Rev. W. A. Jacobs will ask his congregation to consider with him as he discusses it at the 10:30 morning worship service in the First Congregational church. The choir will sing the anthem, "O Holy, Holy, Holy Lord" by H. R. Sholey. Miss Jane Bisping will be leader of the Lambda Tau Pi 7 o'clock meeting Sunday evening.

Group 1, Ladies Society will have its usual one o'clock luncheon Wednesday noon and group 2 will meet in the evening.

Masses will be said at 5:30, 6:30, 7:30 and 8:30 in St. Patrick's Catholic church as members attend to church duties early in order to attend the Holy Name rally which opens with a Pentecost high mass at 10 o'clock. St. John's Catholic church has also changed the hours of mass for Sunday. One mass will be said at 5:45 and one at 7:30. The hours of mass at St. Mary's Catholic church have been set at 6, 7, and 9:15 Sunday morning.

The Vigil of the Pentecost will be celebrated by all Catholics today and Wednesday and Saturday of next week will be Ember days in observance of the beginning of summer.

Plan Communion
In observance of Whitsunday, holy communion will be offered at 8 o'clock and 11 o'clock in St. Thomas Episcopal church Sunday morning. Church school will be at 9:30. The Altar Guild of the church which is headed by Mrs. John Klinker is making plans to raise funds out of which articles for the sanctuary and sanctuary will be purchased. Members are Mrs. A. Chambers, Mrs. J. F. Gillingham, Mrs. H. S. Harwood, Mrs. J. W. Herbold, Mrs. G. K. Hill, Mrs. Jack Kimberly, Mrs. Jim Kimberly, Mrs. John McAndrew, Mrs. Chester Shepard, Mrs. Kimberly Stuart, Mrs. W. G. Trilling and Mrs. Fred Yaley.

Holy Name Executive Committee Cables Greetings to Pope
Menasha—A cablegram greeting Pope Pius XI today was sent to the Vatican City, Rome, Italy, by the Holy Name Rally executive committee, according to C. A. Loesch, general chairman.

Following is the cablegram: "Fifteen thousand Holy Name members of the Catholic diocese of Green Bay send greetings and hopes for health and length of life."

Last minutes preparations for the rally and parade have been completed and the committee is ready to receive the thousands of visitors. Information on parade formation changes will be available at the Menasha postoffice. All units must report to the parade marshal at the postoffice for location and directions.

Menasha street department workmen were kept busy today repainting zone stripes on streets and finishing street decorations.

RUBBISH COLLECTIONS
Menasha—Rubbish collections in Menasha Wednesday will be made in the first district to include the area on the island. Residents of the area should have rubbish in containers at the curb to aid city workmen.

NO CONTAGION
Menasha—No contagion was reported in Menasha during the last week, according to H. O. Haugh, health officer. The only contagion in the city at present includes several cases of chicken pox and whooping cough, the health officer said.

Salem Evangelical Ladies Aid society will conduct a food sale Saturday, May 29, at the Heuer furniture store.

B. E. Miller of this city, state warden of the Knights of Columbus left Friday to attend a meeting of state officers being held at Lorraine hotel in Madison on Saturday. The state officers are meeting with the state resolutions committee to prepare resolutions for the state Knights of Columbus convention to be held at Fond du Lac on May 24 and 25.

FIREMEN CALLED

New London—Smoke from a burned-out electric refrigerator motor prompted second-floor tenants to call the fire department to the tavern operated by William Abel about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The only damage was that to the machine.

SCHOOL HEAD RETIRES

Teachers of the Clintonville public schools honored Superintendent F. D. Wartimbee (above) and Mrs. Wartimbee at a dinner Thursday evening at the Lions clubhouse on Long lake. The affair was in the form of a farewell party for Mr. Wartimbee, who will conclude his duties at the local school at the close of the present term after holding the position of city superintendent here for the last 22 years.

The evening opened with a dinner for 30 guests, after which there was a program with Russell Rill as toastmaster. There was ensemble singing and an original poem composed by Miss Fern Schoenfeldt was read by her. A gift was presented to Mr. Wartimbee by E. A. Hutchinson on behalf of the faculty members.

There was a response by the retiring superintendent and short talks by the other teachers. Following the program, cards provided amusement for the remainder of the evening.

Earlier in the evening, a boutonniere and a corsage of flowers were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Wartimbee.

New London Society

New London—Four Appleton women, prominent in the activities of the Women's Relief corps, were guests of the New London corps at the regular meeting at the Odd Fellows hall yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Clara Miller, department patriotic instructor, spoke of her work in the department and outlined a memorial day program. With her were Mrs. Nina Brainerd, president of the Appleton corps; and Mrs. Emma Brown and Mrs. Nellie Carey, past presidents.

Plans were made for a public card party at the home of Mrs. Milo DeGroot next Monday afternoon. The committee from the May group to assist Mrs. DeGroot is Mrs. Leonard Cline, Mrs. C. J. Dean, Mrs. George Humblet and Mrs. L. S. McGregory. Tuesday night members of the corps will meet at the home of Mrs. William Garot to make wreaths for the memorial day services.

The Friendly Neighbor club met at the home of Mrs. John Rickaby Thursday evening and prizes were won by Mrs. Nellie Wells and Mrs. Ruth Knapp. Mrs. Knapp will entertain next week.

Mrs. August Meshek was hostess to the Del Monte club Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Herman Roloff and Mrs. E. L. Surprise won the prizes. The latter was a guest of the club. In two weeks Mrs. Will Myers will entertain.

The Tuesday Night club met with Mrs. Leo Herres Thursday evening and prizes were won by Mrs. Sylvester Houk and Mrs. Melvin West. Next Thursday Mrs. Elsie Rudinger will entertain.

Guests of the West Side club yesterday afternoon were Miss Ada Scheibler, Mrs. Walter Schoenrock and Mrs. A. C. Borchardt. Mrs. Otto Stern was hostess and prizes were won by Mrs. Emil Gehrke and Mrs. Albert Borchering. The club will meet again in two weeks.

Mrs. Martha Jossie entertained the Neighborhood club at her home Thursday evening. Mr. Earl Curry and Mrs. Lotte Kluechski won the prizes at cards. The latter will be hostess next week.

The Thursday Dinner club excursion to Oshkosh Thursday evening to be the guests there of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McMahon, formerly of this city. Prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. Ben Harquist and H. B. Cristy. Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Pfeiffer will be hosts to the club next week.

Commission Will Hear Power Equipment Plan

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—The proposal of the city of New London to install new power equipment in its municipal water and electric plants will get a hearing before the Wisconsin Public Service commission in Madison on May 20, the commission has announced.

The city has applied for authorization to install gasoline-engine-driven generating equipment in its plant.

New London Office

News and circulation departments of the Appleton Post-Crescent are represented in New London by Alvin J. Brault, 103 E. Cook street. News items and orders for subscriptions may be left at that address or may be telephoned by calling 18. Papers missed by carriers will be delivered if complaint is made before 7 p. m.

Seniors Please Audience In Class Play, 'Gun Shy'

New London—Except for the senior class 1-act contest play next week, dramatics activities at Washington High school closed for the year last night with the presentation of the annual senior class 3-act play, "Gun Shy." The entire cast turned in a fine performance before a filled auditorium and the new recorded sound effects were well received by the capacity audience.

Peggy Hammerberg, Delmar Kopitzke and Eunice Konrad were commended on their first stage appearance in the play. Though it was her first experience in school dramatics, Eunice Konrad particularly earned the right to become a member of the National Thespian Honor Dramatic society for her portrayal of Ann, a neighbor girl who attracted the artistic photographer son of Peter Drake, retired big game hunter. Herman Platte and Donald Platte filled their roles well. The veterans of the school stage, Roland Rosenberger, Carolyn Caley, Harold Herres, Martin O'Brien, and Rudd Meiklejohn, all added new laurels to their achievements in high school dramatics.

Betwene acts entertainment was furnished by music soloists. Gertrude Ploetz played a solo on the mellophone horn, Jack Seering a clarinet solo and John Caley performed on the trumpet. Accompanists were Mrs. D. N. Stacy and Mrs. Orr Glend.

Award Letters
For the first time in the history of the school letters will be awarded this year in recognition of dramatic work. To receive a letter a student must become a member of the Thespian group one year and duplicate the requirements in a succeeding year. Thespian entrance requires a major consisting of participation in a 3-act play with a role of more than 70 speeches.

In the 1-act play sponsored by the Thespians will appear Melvin Roloff as the wife, and Harrietta Burton as the negro maid in "They Cleaned Attic," the old story of discard and retrieve during spring cleaning. The play is coached by Harold Herres of the Thespian group. It will be presented in the auditorium during the assembly period next Thursday afternoon as the senior entry in the class play contest among the four classes.

Mrs. Frank Nadler Dies At Her Home at Chilton
Chilton—Mrs. Frank Nadler, 83, died at her home Thursday afternoon after an illness of about a week. She was born in Germany Jan. 14, 1854, and came to America with her parents at the age of 13 months. In 1875 she was married to Frank Nadler, and they located on a farm in Charlesburg, where they lived until 1908, when they moved to Chilton. Mrs. Nadler died three years ago. Survivors are one son, Arthur, Stockbridge; five daughters, Lucy, at home; Mrs. John Popp, St. John; Mrs. Philip Nett, Sherwood; Mrs. John Hemaier, Stockbridge; Mrs. Anna Dietz, Chilton; 47 grandchildren; 18 great grandchildren; one brother, Ray Reinl, Charlesburg; and one sister, Mrs. J. Roehrig, Adrian, Mich. The funeral will be held from St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock Monday morning by the Rev. H. E. Hume. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery. Mrs. Nadler was a member of the Christian Mothers of St. Mary's church.

John J. Franzen of Charlesburg died Wednesday afternoon in Fond du Lac, after an illness of two weeks. He was born in Charlesburg Nov. 3, 1891. On Sept. 28, 1915, he was married to Miss Mary Mueller, and they lived in Charlesburg for eight years. For the last 14 years they have lived in the town of New Holstein. Survivors are his widow; two sons, Arthur and Elmer; one daughter, Severa; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Franzen, Charlesburg; one brother, Nicholas, Sheboygan; two sisters, Mrs. Peter Retherath, Fond du Lac; and Mrs. John Mueller, Charlesburg. The funeral was conducted at 8:45 Saturday morning from Holy Trinity church, New Holstein, by the Rev. Joseph Gluckstein. Burial will be in the church cemetery. Mr. Franzen was a member of the Catholic Knights, and members of the branches from St. Anna, Charlesburg and Charlesburg attended in a body.

Returns to Waupaca After Year in Alaska
Waupaca—Alton McAllister returned this week from Juneau, Alaska, where he has been since March, 1936, working in the forestry service at Ketchikan mines in the summer and in the lumber camps in the winter.

In company with John LaFaire, the boys left in an old automobile for Anchorage, Alaska, where they expected to get work in the salmon industries. In North Dakota they had an opportunity to sell their car for $28, exactly enough to purchase two tickets to Seattle. Thinking their chances better for crossing the mountains by train, the car was sold.

At Seattle they were advised that jobs were easier to find in Juneau, so they made that city their destination. Early upon their arrival, they were surprised to meet on the streets, Bobby Ferguson, classmate of the year before. Shortly after they reached Alaska, John Breseman, Harold Buck and Wilbur Larson, left for the same place. They are expected to return early this summer, all of them preferring Wisconsin to the damp Alaskan climate.

New London Personals
New London—A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Rehmer, Bear Creek, at Community hospital yesterday.

Miss Irene Regel, Weyauwega, submitted to an operation at the hospital yesterday morning and Hiram Meyer, Bear Creek, was admitted as a patient.

Hold Last Rites for George Delano, 80
New London—Funeral services for George Delano, 80, Ostrander farmer who died Thursday morning at the home of his nephew, C. D. Feathers, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Cline and Learman funeral home. The Rev. F. S. Dayton conducted the services.

Burial was in the Ostrander cemetery and bearers were Arnold Garrow, Victor Thomas, John Loss, Charles Larsen, Arthur Straub and Walter Thompson.

Young Baseball Players Organize Their Own Loop
Five Teams Play Games on City Diamonds Every Sunday

New London—A young set of baseball addicts in New London and the surrounding villages have organized into five softball teams with games scheduled at various diamonds each Sunday. The New London boys will meet Royall on the Washington High school grounds tomorrow in their fourth Sunday of the season. They won the opening double header against Northport and have lost to Royall and a team composed of rural boys north of the city headed by Keith Wege. The fifth team in the group hails from Bear Creek.

Many New London boys play on the outside teams but the lineups vary considerably. Melvin Roloff captains the New London team, Jack Kelly heads the Royall aggregation and Vern Wilson is pilot of the Northport club.

Appearing for New London are Keith Pahl on the mound with Kenneth Poppy as alternate and fielder. Roloff does the catching with Walter Thorn on first base. George Edminister on second, Victor Edminister at third, and Bernard Stern at short. In the field are John Secord, Bud Harris and Archie Surprise.

Thirteen Hours Adoration Are Concluded at Hilbert

Hilbert—Thirteen hours adoration at St. Mary's church on Thursday closed with services at 6:45 in the evening. The litany of All Saints was sung by all clergy. The Rev. John Gehl of Denmark delivered the sermon; the Rev. Peter Salm of St. John was celebrant; the Rev. Francis Heilmann of Joricho, deacon, and the Rev. John De Wild of Combined Locks, sub-deacon. Other clergy present in the sanctuary were the Rev. Peter Griesnick of Sherwood, the Rev. Michael Gonerney of Stockbridge and the Rev. Raymond Fox, pastor.

At the services at 7:30 Wednesday evening the Rev. Edward Wagner of Meeme delivered the sermon. The Rev. Joseph Gluckstein of New Holstein acted as deacon, and the Rev. Francis Heilmann as sub-deacon. The Rev. Peter Griesnick was the celebrant.

About 400 persons attended the adoration services, "Climbing Roses." The Hilbert opera house Thursday evening. Between the first and second acts, Miss Janice Thorpe, a sophomore, recited her dramatic declamation, "Tipping off Teacher," for which she received first and second places in various contests. Between the second and third acts, a female, commercial teacher, played several dramatic solos with Irene Ecker at the piano.

The junior prom of the local high school will be held Thursday evening, May 20, at Vollmer's hall.

Kimberly Holy Name Group to Attend Rally
Kimberly—A large number of members of the Holy Name parish Holy Name society will attend the rally of the Green Bay Diocesan union of the society which is expected to bring thousands of visitors to Neenah-Menasha Sunday.

Transportation is being provided for members who plan to go. The Kimberly delegation, including the Kimberly band, will leave the village hall at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon and will meet on Second street, Menasha. The Kimberly society will march as a unit and will be headed by the Community band.

The first Holy Name society in the Green Bay diocese was organized in Kimberly by the Rev. F. X. Van Nistlero, shortly after the parish was started in 1907.

Mrs. Ed Savall of Dale is spending a week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ray Mauthe.

Open air concerts by the Kimberly band will begin the latter part of this month in the park. The band is planning 10 outdoor concerts if the weather permits.

Students Register for Next Year's Study
New London—Freshmen, junior and sophomore students at Washington High school registered for next year's study courses during the afternoon assembly period Thursday. No change was announced in the courses this year with the entire curriculum continuing at during the past year. Entering freshmen will register next fall.

Doubleheader Will Open Play In Softball Loop

Hamiltons to Meet Borden's And Edisons to Clash With Millers

New London—A doubleheader showing Hamiltons against Borden's and the Edisons pitched against Millers High Lives will open the City Industrial Softball league schedule under the lights at the city ball park the evening of Wednesday, June 2, according to plans evolved at a meeting of league officials and team managers at Pahl's Bowling alleys last night.

Some opening ceremonies and presentation of the annual trophy to last year's winners, the 1936 Hamilton team, will mark the opening games. On the following Friday Gehrke's Hardware will meet the American Plywood team. One game will be played each Monday, Wednesday and Friday night with the first half of the season ending July 2. The second half will begin July 5 and close Aug. 6 with the playoff one week later.

Present Rosters
Managers submitted tentative team rosters last night but because of conflicts in the lists league officials will make revisions and return them for approval later. Another meeting will be held in two weeks.

It was voted last night to have each team contribute a cash sum to add to the amount already in the league treasury to make a substantial payment on the club's share of indebtedness towards the cost of installing the lighting system at the field. The league emerged with a slight balance above expenses last year.

Seymour Wins District Class C Track Championship

New London Cops Second Place in Class B Tourney

Schools Hold Annual Meets At Green Bay West Friday

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
GREEN BAY—Showing a well-balanced squad which scored at least one point in every event, Seymour high school track and field team yesterday afternoon copped the honors in the Class C district elimination tournament here on the West high field. Seymour totaled 40 1-5 points in its march or 10 1-5 more than the second place Fish Creek team. Marion High school won fourth honors with 19 1-5. Kimberly was seventh with 15 and Brillion eleventh with 6 1-2. Thirteen school entered the meet.

THE POINTS CLASS C

1—Seymour	40 1-5
2—Fish Creek	30
3—Peshigo	21 1-5
4—Marion	19 1-5
5—Valders	17 7-10
6—Coleman	16
7—Kimberly	15
8—N. Fondy	14 1-2
9—Crivitz	7 1-2
10—Winneconne	7
11—Brillion	6 1-2
12—Wrightstown	0

CLASS B

1—Shawano	49
2—New London	47 1-2
3—W. DePere	38 1-2
4—Neenah	33
5—Kiel	16
6—Kaukauna	10
7—Chilton	0
8—Oconto	0

Shawano High school repeated as the district Class B champion but it got a scare from New London High school which feels that it might have copped if Bob Yost hadn't been sent to bed by his physician. Yost was almost a certain winner of five points in the high jump and of a few other points in other events.

Shawano scored 49 points, New London 47 1-2, West DePere 38 1-2, Neenah 33, Kiel 16, Kaukauna 10, and Chilton 0.

May Go to State Meet
All winners of first, second and third places won the right to compete in the state track and field tournament at Madison the weekend of May 29.

Summary of the Class C events:
100-yard dash—Seymour showed balance in the century when it qualified Pasch and Runge and they finished third and fifth, respectively. Berns, Fish Creek, a powerful little runner, won the event in 10.8 seconds.

200-yard dash—Pasch took a third place for Seymour with Berns again winning the race. The time was 24.1 seconds.

440-yard run—Wheelock, Fish Creek, galloped around the track in 53.3 seconds for first place while Seymour managed to horn in on a fifth by Ziewacz and a point.

LITTLE 9 TO MEET
Schools in the Little Nine conference having track will clash in their annual tournament starting at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at Whiting field of Lawrence college. Based on its showing at the district meet yesterday, Seymour is odds on favorite to win with Kimberly second, Denmark, Hortonville and Brillion are expected to offer the other opposition.

880-yard run—Slight David Dawson of Brillion repeated as the best half mile in Class B and won by a big margin in 7 minutes, 8 seconds. He also copped the event last year. Meyer of Marion was second, and Talbot picked up two points for fourth place for Seymour.

1 mile run—Foste, Seymour, outdistanced the field in the mile and finished strong with a smile all over his face in 4 minutes and 46 seconds.

Ted Gullie Bats 376 to Take 3rd Place in A. A. Race

Has Batted in 33 Runs and Blasted Eight Balls Over the Fence

CHICAGO (U-P)—Johnny Rizzo, one of the St. Louis Cardinals' farmhands at Columbus, socked out 15 hits in 32 times at bat in a week, enough hitting to give him the American association lead.

Rizzo, in third place a week ago, added 19 points to his average, for a handsome .437 mark, while Harry Taylor, Minneapolis' first baseman, the previous pace-setter, lost 39 points to an even .400. Ted Gullie, veteran Milwaukee outfielder, sweetened his average 25 points to .376, climbing from eleventh to third position. All averages were figured to include Thursday's games.

Rizzo also took over the top positions in hits with 38, total bases at 62, and hit two triples to increase his leading total in that department to six. Gullie continued to lead in batting in runs, boosting his total to 33, an increase of ten, and topped the field in home runs with eight.

Other leading regulars in the batting list, all of whom had been to bat more than 70 times, were: Dusty Cooke, Minneapolis, .373; Ralph Boyle, Kansas City, .365; English, Kansas City, .361; Kress, Minneapolis, .357; Stanley Spence, Minneapolis, .356; Oscar Eckhardt, Indianapolis, .352; King, Columbus, .351.

Forrest Pressnell, Milwaukee right-hander, won one game for a record of four straight to head the pitchers. Bill Zuber, another Brewer, had three victories and no defeats for second place. George Coffman, young Toledo star, had an impressive collection of six triumphs in seven starts. Morton Cooper of Columbus, was the strikeout leader, having cut down 30 batsmen in 48 innings.

Minneapolis lost a point from its team batting mark, but its .324 gave it a huge lead over Columbus second place .281. St. Paul retained the team fielding leadership with .581.

Joe Louis Ready "To Cut Loose"

Negro Heavyweight Is Pleased at Court Decision on Injunction

KENOSHA (U-P)—A smiling Joe Louis promised to "cut loose and start training with a purpose" when he was informed yesterday a New York, N. J., court ruling had removed a possible legal barrier to his championship fight with James Braddock at Chicago June 22.

"I feel a lot better about my training now," Louis said. "He was resting after a brisk track workout when he was told Federal Judge Guy L. Fike had refused to restrain Champion Braddock from meeting Louis in a title go. The Madison Square Garden claimed prior contracts matching Braddock with Max Schmeling."

Four Negro sparring mates joined Louis at his camp here yesterday and two more were scheduled to arrive Sunday. The men, quartered in a hotel near the lake front stadium where Louis will be put through his ring paces, are George Higgs, Jim Howell, George Nicholson, all of New York, and Seal Harris, of Chicago.

Howell won the inter-city golden gloves heavyweight crown at New York two years ago from Paul Hartneck, Kenosha.

Quella Hurls Parochial Grade Squad to Victory

Sacred Heart grade school softball team defeated the McKinley school seventh and eighth grade team 15 to 11 yesterday afternoon at the McKinley diamond. Quella hurred for the parochial school squad, with Hornke receiving, Swamp and Koester formed the losers' battery.

Y Ball Team Beats Moose, Gives Mr. Bates Headache

MOOSE came back with five in the half fourth but the Y added three more in the sixth and the Moose accounted for three and the game ended 12 to 3 when it was called at the end of the sixth on account of darkness.

GREEN BAY—The second round of activities in the Northern State league baseball chase is slated this Sunday and the three games should furnish the fans with plenty of diamond thrills.

Two Rivers, pennant winners in 1936, will be at home to Little Chute, the club that put a dent in the dope bucket last week by administering a surprise defeat of Green Bay. The Chuters will start their ace battery, Dick Weisgerber and Jack Lamers, against the newly named "Icebergs," Morrie Braut, the Two Rivers' manager, is keeping his pitching and backstop selections under cover.

In last Sunday's games Kuenzel topped the batsmen with three hits in four trips to the plate. Among the batsmen with a pair of bingles were Jungbauer and Sonneleitner of Oshkosh, Vnuk and Gosprack of Manitowoc; Eggert of Kaukauna; Versteeg and Peotter of Little Chute, and Simons, Zuidmulder and Jacobs of Green Bay.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

PICKED up around the track meets at Green Bay West High school yesterday: Marion High school almost failed to get to the district meet in the afternoon. . . . The high school bus blew a tire about four miles outside of Green Bay. . . . and just missed a telephone pole. . . . Coach Ansgore was still chilled when he arrived at the meet with his boys and Principal L. K. Forrest lost a dozen pounds. . . . As a result of the late arrival Marion was unable to compete in the high hurdle heat.

David Dawson, Brillion, galloped through the half mile without being pressed. . . . He's so frail he looks as if he'll fall apart. . . . Foate of Seymour took the mile run in a breeze. . . . He finished with a big smile and probably could have done five seconds better if someone had chased him. . . .

Roynacker, Kimberly, has the worst form in the world in the high hurdles but he gets there just the same. . . . Brandenberg's race in the relay was the sensation of the afternoon for Marion. . . . They talked as though they never knew the kid could sprint. . . . Coach Loftus of Seymour ran almost as far as his sprinters during the relay. . . . He kept chasing from one side of the field to the other to watch the exchange of batons.

The two meets indicated that track is making big inroads as a spring sport and that's fine. . . . It offers a lot of boys who would never compete in football or basketball, a chance to do something. . . . But the Class C schools generally need better coaching. . . . Might be a few boys have proper form and of course part of that is due to lack of facilities. . . . One thing that was noticeable about the whole afternoon was that neither Class C nor B boys warmed up before events. . . . Generally they entered them absolutely "cold." . . . Which, of course, cut down times and resulted in some of them feeling badly after a stiff race. . . . They should watch Valley conference and college boys warm up. . . .

Not having had enough track in the afternoon and evening when we spent more than an hour checking scores and names and results of the afternoon meets, I remained for part of the East-West-Manitowoc triangular meet and believe me, I saw a runner in this Elly Franks of Manitowoc.

He didn't compete in the half mile picking the mile instead. At the run he took third position and just kept on traveling running all opposition into the ground. And then, on the last 100 yards he turned on a bit of a sprint and was clocked in something like 4 minutes. 29 plus seconds. Without a doubt he's the most perit runner the conference has ever seen. He's a master of pace and it's a terrific one.

They say—that Coach Ole Jorgenson of Neenah didn't go trout fishing the opening day this year. . . . Ole probably remembers last year when he stepped on some logs and was dunked in a cold creek at an early hour in the morning.

Buck Benny was riding the range again yesterday. . . . He appeared at the track meet at Green Bay in the form of Coach Ivy Cahoon of West who started the boys with a huge six shooter which he carried in a mammoth holster slung across the front of Ivy's rather spacious tummy.

Note to Valley conference sports scribes: Where are the coaches going to sit at the Valley conference? relays next week and at the conference meet in June? How about a reminder that things worked beautifully last year here when the coaches came to the conference? The comfortable plank in the bleachers and remained there.

Orville Wanle, youthful pitching sensation at Seymour last year, is with the Lexington, Tenn., club in the Kitty Baseball league this summer.

Vernon Thorsen, who pitched ball for the Greenville Merchants last summer, has accepted a contract to coach football at Tomahawk next fall. . . . Tomahawk has been without football for several years. . . . Thorsen is a graduate of Oshkosh State Teachers college where he starred in several sports.

Ken Slattery, Appleton High school basketball guard and forward last year, has been awarded a medal indicating he made the valley all-conference first team last season. Eck Erdlitz, Oshkosh, promoted a dance down there and raised money for gold basketballs for the Oshkosh High school team. . . . He had enough left to buy medals for the all-conference experts. . . . and no doubt the boys appreciate the trophies. . . . John Walter, please take note.

Chicago (U-P) Tony Bruno, 150, Milwaukee, won an eight round decision from Elbie Johnson, 157, Dallas, Tex. Negro, in a boxing match last night.

THE WEEK'S GAMES
Monday—Valley Iron Works versus Menasha Merchants. (Ordered replayed May 24).

Wednesday—Kobal Tavern 14, Jake's Tavern 4.

Thursday—Appleton Merchants 7, Hartmans 1.

Friday—Lutz Coolers 9, Pond Juniors 4.

LUTZ Coolers in the American City league got into winning ways last night when they downed the Pond Juniors, 9 to 4. It was the first win for the Lutz team in two starts and the second defeat for the Ponds.

The teams scored three runs each in the first inning but the Ice men counted three more in the second to take a lead they never lost. In the fifth they scored another and in the sixth got two. The Ponds counted once in the seventh.

Veit and Van Ryzin worked on the mound for the losers and gave up five hits. Veit fanned two, and walked five while Van Ryzin walked four. Meyers loiled for the Lutz team and gave up two hits, fanned seven and walked five.

Malueg of the losers hit a home run.

Fight Promoters Win Court Battle

Go Ahead With Plans for Braddock-Louis Match In Chicago

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
New York (U-P)—Elated by a federal court decision in their favor, Chicago promoters went ahead today with preparations for the Braddock-Louis championship fight for the world heavyweight title.

While promoters of the Chicago bout between Champion Jim Braddock and Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber, looked for no further legal obstacles, New York promoters indicated they would not accept as final Federal Judge Guy L. Fike's decision in which he ruled in favor of a higher court.

He denied the Garden's request for a temporary injunction to restrain Braddock, who is under contract to fight Max Schmeling in the Garden June 3, from meeting Louis in Chicago.

Braddock, in training at Grand Beach, Mich., said "he felt all along he would win," and Joe Foley, the Chicago promoter, announced tickets for the fight in Comiskey park probably would be placed on sale next Thursday.

In his decision on the injunction application, which he had under consideration for more than a month, Judge Fike paved the way for an appeal by reserving the right to come to contrary conclusions in the event that the examination and cross-examination of witnesses in open court on final hearing justifies a different result.

John Henry Lewis May Enter Rank of Heavies
New York (U-P)—John Henry Lewis, who has found that the light heavyweight title won't buy many meals while the competition is so scarce, is beginning to consider seriously his threat to enter heavyweight ranks.

Lewis hasn't had a title fight since he outpointed Len Harvey in London last November and he's found only a couple of 175 pounders to try his punches on in preparation for his next defense of the crown against Bob Olm at St. Louis June 3.

Lewis has tackled a half dozen heavyweights and beaten them all. In his last tangleup before meeting Olm, Lewis landed a sound beating on Patsy Perromi of Cleveland in a ten rounder at Madison Square Garden last night. Outweighed by some seven pounds, 178 1/2 to 185 1/2, Lewis failed to put Perromi, the point where we can print them, the shots show that it's big fish. . . . if Louis, on the floor but he did all most everything else.

That surgeon which has been attracting people to the Fox river below the Oneida street bridge is a little fellow. . . . We took a couple pictures of him and while we've been unable to enlarge them to the point where we can print them, the shots show that it's big fish. . . . if Louis, on the floor but he did all most everything else.

Pirates Chase Dizzy Dean From Mound, Win 14-4

Bucs Now Hold 3 1-2 Game Lead; Browns Defeat Tigers

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NATIONAL league batters take warning. Dizzy Dean is on the warpath.
All because those pounding Pirates from Pittsburgh plastered the season's most effective pitcher with the greatest of ease yesterday, the great one has the bit in his teeth. "Just watch me the next time out," he told anyone who would listen today. "I'll really be foggin' 'em in."

Until he and the Cardinals were given a thorough going over in the Smoky City, Dean had been plain and fancy poison to opposition batters. He had allowed just two earned runs in 46 innings, had muffed the enemy with 38 hits and 40 strikeouts and had compiled an earned run average of 0.40.

He lasted three innings and three straight Pittsburgh hits in the fourth frame before he took a walk yesterday, but still only two of the five runs scored off him were earned, since an error figured in three of them. As a result, his effectiveness still remained at something under one-run per nine-inning game, which comes under the head of pretty fair country pitching.

Dizzy Isn't Sore
After he'd slept on it, Dizzy wasn't sore at the Pirates. He gave them credit for the 20 hits they banged all over the lot.
"After all," he summed it up today, "when you get your ears pinned back, there ain't nuthin' to say. And believe me, fellas, my ears were pinned way back."

The victory for the Pittsburghs tightened their hold on the National league lead by a full game. They go into their home stand now with a 34 game edge on the second-place Cards.

Rain washed out all the rest of the National league program, as well as all but one tilt in the American. In that game, outside of the 6-5 surprise, the St. Louis Browns handed the Detroit Tigers, the outstanding development was that the way it shook up the standings.

The victory boosted the Browns to sixth place, over the hapless White Sox, and dropped the teetering Tigers into the second division, with the Yankees taking sole possession of third place and the Boston Red Sox advancing to fourth, although both were idle.
A recapitulation of the just-concluded first invasion by the western clubs in the National league and the eastern outfits in the American, shows the Philadelphia Athletics far and away the most successful. The astonishing A's won six of seven starts for first place in the American league. In the rival loop, the Pirates nine wins in 11 games topped everything in sight.

St. Mary's Cops 5th Win In Catholic Conference

St. Mary's softballers won their fifth Catholic Boy conference game yesterday afternoon at Little Chute when they defeated the St. John squad, 10 to 8. The Appleton club won last only one game. Jansen and Hurst hit home runs in the final inning, the Pirates nine wins in 11 games topped everything in sight.

TEAM WITHOUT DIAMOND
Iowa City—(U)—Iowa's baseball nine isn't winning all its games, but the team has one record. With the season more than halfway gone, the boys had had just one afternoon of practice on their diamond. Con-

Peter De Paolo to Drive FWD Car at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Peter De Paolo, internationally known racing driver who won the 1935 Indianapolis Speedway championship after figuring in a series of "crackups," and who twice won the coveted AAA national racing championship, is back again at the Speedway.

Absent since 1935, Pete this time is handling the FWD Special, only four-wheel drive entered in the Indianapolis silver anniversary race to be held Monday, May 31. The car is owned by the Four Wheel Drive Auto Company, Clintonville, Wis.

De Paolo's choice of the FWD as his entrant is the result of his experience with a four-wheel drive car in 1934. That year, after five years' retirement from the racing field, De Paolo couldn't resist an invitation to race in the famous Tripoli Sweepstakes in Africa. The invitation came from a fellow Italian—General Italo Balbo, famous aviator, who had become governor of the Italian province of Libya, North Africa.

Was Among Leaders
Driving an eight-cylinder, four-wheel drive car, De Paolo entered the race, held on a 12-kilometer (eight mile) course, in April, 1934. Finishing among the leaders, the car made a favorable impression upon General Balbo and technical engineers. It is believed that performance of the car had some influence upon the Italian government, for Italy eventually adopted the four-wheel drive principle in the construction of military trucks.

From Tripoli, the race driver went to Berlin, Germany, where he had been invited to participate with his car in a race against the Avus track. On May 28, 1934, he defeated Adolf Hitler, and other Nazi dignitaries. De Paolo made such an impression with his four-wheel drive car that government officials and motor experts decided to study the vehicle. Eventually, they adopted this type of drive for their military transport.

Dizzy Isn't Sore
De Paolo's next race, in Barcelona, Spain, on June 16, 1934, was almost fatal to him. Rounding a hair-pin curve on a Barcelona street which was the race course, De Paolo swerved to the curb to avoid striking two Spanish youngsters who had wandered onto the course. The car struck the curb, hurling the driver against an iron post, causing a skull fracture. This resulted in a three-months' convalescence in a hospital, and temporary blindness.

Returns to States
Recovered from his injury, De Paolo returned to the United States, convinced that racing was too dangerous a profession for a family man. But after a few months spent in private business, the fearless Italian again responded to the lure of the Speedway. Unfortunately, his cars arrived at the track too late for him to qualify for the 1935 classic. He was not entered in 1936.

Now, the racing fraternity has again claimed Pete. Fans who have seen him in previous years, piloting his cars at terrific speed, with skill and coolheadedness, will see him this year at the wheel of the FWD Special, qualifying for a place in the Silver Anniversary race.

Convinced that the four-wheel drive car is ideal for safety at high speed, De Paolo believes that his entry is one of the fastest cars on the track, and that it will continue to make the impressive showing at the track that it has made for several years.

'GRIDDERS LAZY'
Milwaukee—(U)—Paddy Driscoll, new Marquette university football coach, says drop-kicking is a "lost art."

Gridders of today, he says, won't take time to practice kicking, and "the accurate drop-kicker must practice constantly."

Driscoll was one of the greatest drop-kickers of them all in his playing days with Northwestern, Great Lakes and the Chicago Bears.

COACH LIKES VOCAL STAR
Minneapolis—(U)—Minnesota baseball players keep up a running fire of chatter on the field, and no one appreciates a choice bit of repartee more than Gopher Coach Frank McCormick. A diminutive sophomore, on the coaching lines, was particularly loud and voracious in a recent game. "There," said the coach, "is the only man on the squad who can shout above a whisper."

tinued showers made the field unfit for drills. When Coach Otto Vogel learns how to develop a baseball team without practice, he will have solved all his troubles.

give his team a nice lead and Meyer and Lorrin maintained it. The Seymour team of Pasch, Ohlrogge, Runge and D. Engel was second not so much because it could run so well but because the boys did pretty well on the exchange. They were clocked in 1 minutes, 41 seconds.

Class B summary:
440-yard dash—Berken of West DePere and Melfert of Shawano finished one and two in the century with Haerli, Neenah, in third place and Peterson, Kaukauna, in fourth. The time was 10.4 seconds. Peterson was victim of a bad arrangement for he had to qualify in the 100 and then the high hurdles and then run finals and it just about stopped him.

220-yard dash—Berken, West DePere, won the long dash in 23.8 seconds.

440-yard run—Long legged Lambie, Kaukauna, stopped in front in the quarter mile shortly after the gun and galloped around the track an easy winner. Clark, diminutive New London runner, was second but handicapped by his short stride compared to Lambie. Meinhardt, New London, took third and Vanden Walker, Neenah, fourth. Lambie's time was 55 seconds.

Don Schmidt, a Winner
680-yard run—Don Schmidt, Neenah, won the half mile which sort of proved Coach Ole Jorgenson's assertion a few days ago at the Neenah-Appleton-Oshkosh meet that his best half mile had gone fishing. The time was 2 minutes, 12 seconds. Schmidt beat in front all the way. Wilkinson, New London, was fifth.

Mile run—Glen McParlan, Neenah, did the mile in 4 minutes, 49 seconds. He, too, led all the way after getting in front on the first back stretch. He appeared to weaken on his final jaunt around and when his head started to bob and he began straining it appeared he might give way to Uech, West DePere, who finished second. However, the Neenah youth stayed in and copped.

High hurdles—Hartman, Shawano's crack hurdler, took the high timbers in 15.9 seconds which is mighty fast time. Schmidt, New London, was second, Peterson, Kaukauna, third, Stern, New London, fourth, and Dodge, Neenah, fifth.

Low hurdles—Hartman, Shawano, again was in a class by himself and won in 27.9 seconds. Clark, New London, chased him to the tape. Stern, New London, was third, and Sword, Neenah, fourth.

High jump—Wittenborn, Neenah, Holer, New London, and McPherson, Shawano, tied for first at 5 feet, 5 inches which made Coach Del Stacey of New London squirm because Bob Yost, at home in bed, can do 5-5 with his clothes on and would have won first easily. Peterson, Neenah, and two others tied for fourth.

Pole vault—Clark, New London, tied Van Stine of West DePere for first in the pole vault at 10 feet, 6 inches. Stern, New London, and two Shawano boys tied for third.

Broad jump—Wittenborn, Neenah, won the broad jump with a mere 19 feet, 7 inches. Brault, New London, was second.

Shot put—The shot putters set a fast pace and Banasak, Crivitz, won the event with 41 feet, 5 inches. Engel, Seymour, was third and Van Sambeck, Kimberly, was fourth.

Discus—Rost, Coleman, heaved the discus 112 feet, 4 inches, for first place and a distance that isn't bettered in the Fox Valley conference. Van Sambeck, Kimberly, was second, Kunzman, Seymour, third, and Wulke, Marion, fifth.

Marion Cops Relay
Relay race—Marion clicked off the best time in the relay, 1 minute, 29.4 seconds largely because of some sensational running by Brandenberg and some excellent passing of the baton by all the boys. Frailing ran the first 220 and trailed just at bit. Brandenberg, running in his only event, burned up the track to

Bestler Breads
Match All Types Of Food Demands

Popular Bakery Offers
Wide Range of Tasty
Baked Goods

"A bread for every taste" is one of the scores of reasons why so many people are enjoying daily breads baked by Bestler's Bakery, located at 208 E. Wisconsin avenue. Bestler's believe along with its many patrons that no meal is complete without bread, therefore, special effort is made to supply a large variety such as white bread, brown, rye, whole wheat, cracked wheat, raisin, boston brown, graham, and others in order to assure the serving of varied home menus.

Bestler's famous white bread, the rich, nutritious loaf, made with the finest of ingredients, is an aid for perfect health for growing children and adults alike. You are urged to try a loaf today and let your family discover how good it really is. Another Bestler favorite is its fresh rye bread, the full-flavored, tasty rye bread that hits the "spot" whenever you are looking for a bite to eat. You will appreciate it at any time, as golden brown toast in the morning, for a "quick" sandwich at your noon lunch, and for a late hour snack before bedtime.

Cracked wheat bread, the new, more delicious health bread, that restores energy and vigor, also is a favorite of Bestler's patrons because it is made easily digestible yet offers the desired ruffage in a mild and wholesome form. Bestler's raisin bread, too, is among the favorites, rich in vitamins, delicious in flavor, and abundant with raisins, this bread is baked to perfection for every person who appreciates bread excellence.

In fact, all Bestler's baked goods taste so good, housewives say, and make the meals so much more attractive and wholesome. A new line of pastries and desserts especially decorated to suit various occasions which recently was introduced is being received enthusiastically by housewives. Beautifully decorated wedding cakes, birthday, anniversary, and special day cake orders are being aptly handled by the firm.

Be Bestler-minded. Call 5232 for your bakery needs. Save hours of work and treat your family to Bestler's fine foods.

Hold Hearing on Rail Petitions

Green Bay and Western Road Seeks to End Passenger Service

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Hearing on the application by the Green Bay and Western and the Annape and Western railroads to discontinue passenger service has been scheduled for May 21 in Madison, but the hearing place may be changed to Green Bay, the commission has announced.

STAR OF 'VIVA VILLA' RAIDS AGAIN

When Wallace Berry, famous star of such films as "Old Hutch" and "Viva Villa," and his young daughter Carol Ann "raid" the family Goldspot refrigerator they do a thorough job of it as evidenced by this picture. The Goldspot pictured here is of the type now on display at Sears, Roebuck and Co's store in this city.

'What Is Your Policy?' Asks F. M. Foor In Talk on Automobile Insurance

"It is surprising how many drivers do not know what is in their policies," said F. M. Foor, local agent for the Farmers Mutual Automobile Insurance Company of Madison, recently in a talk on "What is in your policy?"

"Let us consider your own case," continued Mr. Foor. "Did you read your policy and take note of the exceptions in it? Or did you, like most car owners, simply listen to a brief explanation, write out a check for the premium, and put the policy away?"

"Since your policy is a contract between yourself and the insurance company, you are held to all of its provisions although you didn't read them. Policies are designed to fill a variety of needs, and you want to be sure that your needs are filled."

"Suppose you occasionally attach a trailer to your car; are you fully protected if you don't give notice to the company? With some policies you are and with others your insurance is null and void unless such use is specifically declared and an additional premium is charged."

"Does your policy extend all forms

File Articles of New Fuel, Supply Company

Articles of incorporation of the North Star Fuel and Supply company, town of Grand Chute, were filed today at the office of A. L. Collar, Outagamie county register of deeds. The corporation has been formed to deal in ice, coke, coal, wood, gasoline, lubricants, building materials and mason materials.

Road Commissioner Will Attend Safety Meeting

F. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner and chairman of the Outagamie County Street and Highway Safety Council, will participate in the Fox River Valley and Lake Shore Safety conference at Oshkosh May 20. D. S. Berry, safety engineer of the National Safety Council, will be one of the principal speakers at the banquet.

of insurance to apply while others drive your car with your consent?"

Under State Law?

"Does your policy cover you under the Automobile Financial Responsibility Laws of any State or Province without the obligation of reimbursing the company for payments made?"

"Does your policy cover just the strictly defined terms of Theft, Robbery, and Pilferage, or does it also cover if your car is taken for a 'joy ride'? Are you covered for loss by wrongful conversion? A well known local business man had a policy that read, 'This policy does not cover wrongful conversion.' This man's car was taken one night and wrecked. The legal interpretation to the manner in which this car was taken was not 'Theft' but 'Wrongful Conversion.' The result was that the insurance did not pay this loss."

"Does your policy cover for personal injury as well as for bodily injury? For example your car may strike and injure a married lady. Not only should your policy cover liability for such bodily injury to the lady, but it should also cover personal injury (loss of services and worry) to the husband."

"By all means carry insurance," concluded Mr. Foor. "Don't gamble with everything that you possess or hope to possess. In my opinion an insurance company should be under experienced and conservative management; it should be time-tested; and it should be Rated 'A' (Excellent). Don't take anything for granted. Read your contract. Make sure that it covers, black on white, your needs. Believe me, limited provisions in your policy can cause you plenty of concern while you live and even prove troublesome after your death."

Good Food Doesn't Come High if You Eat at the State

Popular Restaurant Open At All Hours: Has Swift Service

To many people the pleasure of enjoying fine food in distinctive surroundings suggests high prices. But this does not hold true at the New State Restaurant because when all is said and done, dining in this comfortable and attractive restaurant costs considerably less than in places of comparable quality.

You will enjoy, too, the new State Restaurant's atmosphere of friendliness and courtesy, its excellent foods, and satisfying service. At the State Restaurant the swiftest service possible in any restaurant outside of an Automat is one of its special features.

Make it a point to visit the State soon and prove to yourself and to your guests that this restaurant is up - to - the - minute and is doing everything possible to please its patrons and to assure their continued good-will.

You will find that the State Restaurant is the place to go at all times and for all occasions, for early morning breakfast, throughout the day, or for an after the show lunch in the evening. Its spacious, yet cozy accommodations, fine, moderately priced foods, and quick service are sure to make you a steady patron of the New State Restaurant.

The State is open at all hours, day and night, in order to accommodate its daily visitors and to refresh early-goers and other "celebrants" who decide to top off their night's fun, regardless of the hour with a late hour lunch.

Refrigeration to Hit 2-Million in 1937, Hoag States

Manager of Local Sears Store Sees Bright Year For Industry

Over two and one-quarter million refrigerator units will be sold by the electric refrigerator industry during the present year, Mr. Hoag, manager of the local Sears, Roebuck and Co. store predicted today in announcing the arrival of a large shipment of 1937 Goldspots.

"Last year two million household units were sold by the industry as a whole, this figure representing an increase of 21 per cent. However, leaders in the industry anticipate an even greater increase in 1937 and feel confident that a sales record will be established," Mr. Hoag said.

Because of its further improved efficiency and beauty, Mr. Hoag, likewise predicts that during 1937 the Goldspot will continue to retain its position as one of the leaders in the refrigerator field.

The design of the new model has again been executed by Raymond Loewy, famous industrial designer, who in 1934 turned his talents from automobiles to household items and subsequently created a streamlined refrigerator cabinet for Sears—the first to be introduced on the American market.

All possible surface lines have been eliminated on the exterior of this new Goldspot, the "hingeless door" being a new exclusive feature. The touch-a-bar automatic opening handle has been changed from a vertical to a horizontal position and, although the refrigerator itself rests flush with the floor, two ornamental moldings at the bottom give the suggestion of legs.

Features of the already famous "planned interior" include the Goldspot Foodex with its vegetable fresher and storage basket, water bottles, glass dishes, panel light and an improved evaporator with a capacity for 113 ice cubes, or over eight pounds of ice.

Fumi-Kool Guards Garments Stored With Grist Furs

Fur Headquarters Offers Superior Protection at New Low Price

"Fumi-Kool" fur storage, tested and approved by hundreds of women whose fur coats were stored at Grist Furs, 231 E. College avenue, last year, is one of the sensations of the fur field this season with the new and attractively lower prices, says F. J. Grist, head of the firm that bears his name.

For only $2 (minimum, or 2% of value) the owner of a fur coat gets, among many other features, the following:

Insured protection in a cool, scientifically treated vault, right on the Grist premises; dust-cleaning, combing and inspection of the furs; knowledge that the furs are absolutely safe from moths, germs, fire and theft, all summer long. For an additional fifty cents, the owner receives a world-wide insurance policy good for 12 months from the time the coat is placed in storage.

The exclusive Malum method, U. S. government approved, and used by a certificate issued by the Department of Agriculture and Markets, is a feature of Fumi-Kool storage. After each fur coat is inspected and dust-cleaned, it is placed in the cool vault. Each vault as filled, is then sterilized with special fumigant and the furs repose unmolested until delivered. Plenty of "breathing space" is provided between each fur, so that costs emerge fresh and attractive much better off than if they had been stored at home or under less scientific conditions elsewhere.

Fur trimmed coats, incidentally, deserve the Fumi-Kool protection. Mr. Grist points out, and are given precisely the same protection afforded all-fur coats.

A bonded messenger will respond to the fur-owner's call to 3508 Storage—payments need not be made until next fall.
